ABOUT 30,000 COMMODITIES TO BE LISTED

Henderson Expected to Issue Order Freezing Charges at March Levels.

RATIONING WAITED

FDR Program Seen Affecting Only Food and Clothing as Shortages Occur.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Price Administrator Leon Henderson issues an order late today freezing virtually all retail and wholesale prices at their highest March levels and extending rent control of several hundred communities

The action will be the first taken to put into effect President Roosevelt's program for combating the high cost of living. The fixing of price ceilings on an estimated 30,000 commodities will be the most far-reaching federal government control ever imposed upon the daily lives of Americans

Major exemptions from the price order will be the chief farm crops, and perishable fruits and vegetables. President Roosevelt has asked congress for special legislation on farm prices.

Meanwhile, rationing under the president's new program was expected to be confined for the most part to the fields of food and clothing

OPA officials said they wanted to avoid rationing wherever possible and expected the program to be confined to goods essential either to the war effort or for maintaining the public health and welfare

Such commodities, they expected, would cover the president's statement that rationing of "all essential commodities of which there is a scarcity" could be expected.

One OPA representative said shortages of approximately 20 per cent would have to exist in foods and from 25 to 33 per

They Pick Wrong Places To Fish, Draw $15 Fines

Hundreds of Richland county residents go fishing daily in various parts of the county but two Perrysville residents made the mistake of picking out a fish propagation area for their sport and because of that they became the first fishermen this spring to be arrested in the city for violation of the conservation laws.

Ray Etzwiler and Leonard Braden of Perrysville, were arraigned in municipal court this morning on a charge of fishing in a propagation area and despite their pleas of innocence were fined $15 and costs each. Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch suspended $10 of their fines.

The Perrysville men were arrested Sunday by C. I. Kimmel, game protector, on the Clearfork creek between the Bowman street bridge and Beymiller street.

Kimmel said there had been several arrests in other parts of the county but that this was the first made in the city this spring

Kimmel said that the Clearfork had been designated as a protected spawning bed for fish between April 15 and June 15 but that the stream would be open for fishing after June 15.

Tornado Kills 100, Injures 750

Boom Town Digging Out From Ruins

Property Damage Set at $2,000,000 As Twister Strikes In West.

(By International News Service)

PRYOR, Okla. — Digging from the ruins of a disastrous tornado which killed an estimated 100 persons, injured upwards of 750 others and caused $2,000,000 property damage, this war boom city of Pryor today embarked immediately upon a program of rehabilitation

"It was a terrible tragedy," said Mayor Tom Harrison, "but we are going to rebuild at once with government assistance, which already has been promised us We have suffered severely, but we can take it."

The estimate of the number dead was furnished by the state highway patrol on the basis of reports from troopers rushed into the area, but Mayor Harrison thought the fatalities might be lower, possibly not more than 75 or 80.

Even before dawn, while rescue crews still were digging in great piles of debris, shattered timbers and twisted girders in search for additional victims, the work of restoration began

Guards and workmen from the huge new ordnance plant near Pryor, whose construction added thousands to the population of the city, began clearing the debris-choked streets.

United States army engineers and air corps cadets from Tulsa and Muskogee moved in and took over patrol duties and maintenance of order

The Red Cross set up a complete emergency organization to assist in rescue work, the reuniting of families and the identification of victims

Hospitals in Pryor soon were filled and ambulances hurried the desperately injured to cities in some cases as far distant as 75 miles Thirteen bodies were reported at Wagoner, Okla., none of them identified at the time.

The tornado struck with sudden fury late yesterday and as suddenly abated, its force apparently dispersing as it traveled eastward. It hit with most devastating effect in the business section where for four or five blocks practically every store was demolished.

TALKS TONIGHT

FDR to Explain Living Cost Program on Air at 10 P. M.

WASHINGTON —(UP)— White House announced today that President Roosevelt will make his fireside chat tonight at 10 p m (EWT).

White House Secretary Stephen T. Early said the address would take about 30 minutes. Mr. Roosevelt will explain to the nation his seven-point "equality of privilege" program to hold down the cost of living, which he submitted to congress yesterday.

The president's talk will be broadcast by all networks and will be sent by short wave throughout the world.

8,100 In County Sign Up In 'Oldster' Draft

Richland Figure Higher, Just As In Rest Of State; Boards Begin Task Of Sorting Registration Cards.

The fourth manpower registration completed, the three Richland county draft boards today began sorting more than 8,100 buff-colored cards as the registrants, 45 to 64 years of age, settled back and waited for Uncle Sam's next move in plans for their service

In Mansfield, Shelby and the rest of Richland county, just as in most sections of the state, the registration was higher than was anticipated. State selective service officials said the registration was 'terrifically heavy, beyond our expectations."

An unofficial count of registrations in the 22 stations through the county provided this total: Draft board 1—2,842, Board 2—2,260, Board 3—3,051, total for county—8,153 The total registration in the county originally was estimated at 7,500

There will be no national "lottery" to assign order numbers for the men 45 to 64 years old, since they are not subject to call for active military service. The registration was ordered to give the government a complete picture of manpower available for this country's war production effort.

Local boards have been instructed merely to sort the cards, and forward registrations of men away from home to their home boards elsewhere in Ohio or in other states Many cards must be exchanged among the three local boards here, since a number of registrants went to the wrong stations through their apparent misunderstanding as to geographical jurisdiction of the boards

National selective service headquarters instructed local boards not to "process" the cards until receipts of further orders Those orders had not been received today at state draft headquarters, but it was understood the next step would be to send out occupational questionnaires to those who signed up

DAYTON—(INS)—Since sugar sales were stopped at midnight last night, federal agents in Dayton today wondered if they might be cited for "hoarding"

Confiscated in a road on an allegedly illicit liquor still were 1,000 pounds of sugar, to say nothing of two new autos—also on Uncle Sam's list of rationed articles. The 360-gallon still was destroyed and four men arrested.

PLANS SET FOR NEW SEND-OFF

Mansfielders Urged Again To Be on Hand Tomorrow to Bid Draftees Farewell.

The Richland Victory Civic Committee announced plans today for another public send-off party for selectees leaving the city for army induction tomorrow—the first of two send-offs this week and the fifth since the practice was originated on March 24

The event is set for the same time as those held in the past—7:30 a. m. The contingent is a comparatively small one, made up from a group of selectees from each of the three draft boards in the city A band will provide martial music.

Earl Saltzgaber, chairman of the committee, announced that the boys would board a bus which will be parked in the middle of Main street, in front of the Richland Trust building at Main and Park avenue west. He urged residents of the county to turn out in large numbers. Close to 5,000 have attended each of the previous send-offs.

The next send-off will be Saturday

SHOWERS DUE

Weatherman Again Predicts That It Might Rain.

For the second successive day, the weatherman predicted today that scattered showers would hit northern Ohio and possibly Mansfield but Richland county farmers scanned the skies and were a bit dubious

Yesterday's highest mercury mark was 81 degrees, six degress lower than Sunday's high. Low point on the thermometer this morning was 51, giving an average of 66 degrees for the past 24 hours.

At noon today, the mercury had already climbed to 73 degrees. Yesterday at noon, it was 76 degrees. No precipitation was recorded despite predictions of scattered showers.

City Preparing For Annual Clean-Up Drive Next Week

With more emphasis than ever because of the many vital war materials which may be salvaged, members of the Junior Association of Commerce today asked all Mansfield residents to take part in the annual civic clean-up week program scheduled to open next Monday.

James L. Eberly, Mansfield attorney, has been named general chairman of the drive and has made arrangements with the city garbage department to have all refuse gathered together by home-owners collected by city garbage department workers.

"With all of us working around the home more than ever in the victory program, we should be able to do an extra good job of cleaning up our places this year," said Eberly. "Many persons will find articles around the house which may be sold to junk dealers and will at the same time be aiding the nation's war effort."

Eberly urged all persons to clean up their homes but added that instead of burning articles collected to sell or contribute them for defense.

Collections will be made in all six wards in the city starting Monday morning. The general chairman asked all residents to have their collections at the curb on their appointed days so that extra collections will be avoided.

The schedule for collections is as follows: First ward, Monday, Second ward, Tuesday, Third ward, Wednesday; Fourth ward, Thursday, Fifth ward, Friday; and Sixth ward, Saturday.

FDR MESSAGE BREWING NEW LABOR FIGHT

Critics Say President Almost Eliminated Unions From Share War Program.

MAP CONGRESS DRIVE

Talk Spurs Move to Suspend 40-Hour Week; Objectives of Plan Approved.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—A chorus of complaints that President Roosevelt practically had exempted organized labor from his share-the-war program spurred new efforts in congress today to force suspension of the 40-hour week and a legislative clamp-down on other union privileges.

Legislators generally approved the objectives set forth in the president's seven point message yesterday designed to bring about an "equality of privilege" in sharing the war burden, but split into confused and quarrelsome blocs opposing and supporting some of the methods proposed.

The president planned to lay his program before the nation in a radio address tonight.

There was sharp criticism in congress of the fact that Mr Roosevelt asked for no labor legislation and approved continuance of over-time wages for war industry workers while at the same time proposing legislative lowering of price ceilings on farm products.

Opposition developed also to his suggestion that drastic measures be enacted which would level off high personal incomes at $25,000 a year, after payment of taxes. Most members agreed with his recommendations for drastically increased excess profits taxation.

There was general approval of an expected order fixing retail and wholesale prices and there was no objection to a rationing of essential commodities Likewise, the president's proposal for widespread voluntary purchases of war bonds was applauded.

But legislators who have been championing new labor laws expressed dissatisfaction at Mr.

HEADS GUARD

Clevelander Appointed to Succeed Byrd.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Governor Bricker today appointed Colonel Donald F. Pancoast, of Cleveland, as a brigadier general in command of the Ohio State Guard.

In taking over command of the guard, Pancoast succeeds Adj. Gen. Whittier S. Byrd, who has been ordered to report to active duty with Ohio's 37th division, the former National Guard, on April 30.

In naming Pancoast commanding officer of the State Guard, Governor Bricker did not name him as adjutant general, a cabinet post. Bricker indicated he would name a successor to Byrd as adjutant general in the next few weeks.

It was understood the governor was seeking a man with some military experience who could take active control of the state's entire defense effort.

British Pound Cologne, Bomb Trondheim Base

Germans Retaliate With Heavy Attack Against Norwich; Populace Evacuates Rostock After Explosives Wrack City For Four Nights In Row.

(By Associated Press)

Britain's great aerial offensive pounded Cologne in the heart of the Ruhr industrial valley before dawn today in the fifth successive night foray into Germany, an RAF communique announced, while German night raiders heavily attacked Norwich, 100 miles northeast of London.

Huge fires were left burning in Cologne, the British said.

Other RAF planes struck in force at the German-occupied naval base of Trondheim, Norway, where the Germans are building an Atlantic battle fleet base, and bombed the docks at Dunkerque and Nazi airdromes. Eighteen planes were acknowledged missing.

Four German warships are anchored in Trondheim harbor, including the 35,000-ton battleship Tirpitz and the 10,000-ton cruiser Prinz Eugen

A British spokesman said the RAF bombardier rained their explosives chiefly on land installations which "we are trying to knock down as fast as they are put up," instead of concentrating on the warships.

"It is vitally important to destroy the usefulness of Trodheim as a naval base," the spokesman said

By daylight, swarms of RAF warplanes roared back across the channel to blast the Nazi-occupied French "invasion coast"

Small, early flights which began at dawn were followed by a giant formation covering a square mile of sky. Described as "the largest single unit ever to attack occupied France," the raiders disappeared in the direction of Calais

Observers said the thunder of heavy explosions jarred the English side of Dover strait, with white exhaust trails streaking the sky for many miles.

The magnitude of the RAF's around-the-clock assaults was indicated by a German high command assertion that 38 British planes had been destroyed in 24 hours—19 in daylight yesterday, 12 in night flights over Germany and seven in a night attack on the Norway coast.

German reports, acknowledging that the Cologne civil population "suffered casualties in dead and injured," asserted the raiders concentrated their attack on "residential districts, hospitals and public buildings."

A British spokesman said the RAF struck in considerable force and inflicted widespread new damage, shifting their attack to the Ruhr after blasting four nights in a row at the German Baltic fort of Rostock.

Stockholm reports said 10,000 families had been left homeless there, while the British air min-

FOILED: Japanese Lose Seven Planes, Transport During Raid

(By International News Service)

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA —A Japanese transport was destroyed off New Ireland and seven Nipponese planes were shot down when a Japanese squadron attempted a new attack on Port Darwin, it was disclosed today in a communique by Gen Douglas MacArthur.

Japanese port installations on the small island of Faisi in the Solomon group also were successfully attacked by United Nations fliers.

The Japanese transport was sunk in an assault against enemy shipping at Kavieng, on the northwestern tip of New Ireland, east of New Britain and New Guinea

The raid against Darwin, carried out yesterday, developed into the longest dog fight to take place so far in the southwest Pacific.

Gen. MacArthur reported that light air activity and intermittent shelling continued at Corregidor, American fortress in Manila bay. On the island of Luzon, it was disclosed, the Japanese began a movement toward the southern end of Cagayan valley.

In the islands in the Visayan sea Jap action was limited to control of coastal areas. There has been no change in the situation at Mindanao, it was said.

Three of the Japanese planes shot down over Darwin were bombers while the other four were fighters.

Lieutenant George Kiser, a Kentuckian, brought his personal bag of Japanese planes to five, and possibly six, in the Darwin dog fights.

Another American, Lieutenant Donald Morse, of Maine, got one

THREAT: Japs Nearing Burma Road, Chinese Rush Up Troops

BULLETIN

CHUNGKING—(INS)—Japanese vanguards have reached the Burma town of Mansein, 110 miles south of Lashio and about the same distance southeast of Mandalay, it was announced today.

(By United Press)

CHUNGKING—Chinese reinforcements are pouring into Burma and highways are being destroyed near Lashio in an attempt to prevent Japan from cutting the Allied supply route to China, a spokesman said today.

The spokesman admitted the Japanese were drawing perilously close to the Burma road and said the entire Lashio-Mandalay railway was threatened by the enemy drive, which by-passed Mandalay to the east.

Five full Japanese divisions, supported by an undetermined number of tanks, armored cars and bombing planes, are storming the southern edge of the upper Burma plateau, the spokesman said

(London observers believed the new Japanese drive may seal the fate of Burma within the next few days. They pointed out that Japanese capture of the Mandalay-Lashio railway would cut off the last reasonably good route of escape for the main British-Chinese forces in eastern and central Burma.)

"Chinese reinforcements are continuing to pour into Burma from Yunnan province in an urgent attempt to rescue the Lashio-Mandalay railway," the spokesman said.

The last Chinese communique, reporting a 93-mile enemy advance north from Loilem, placed the main Japanese forces within 67 miles of Lashio. But it was

Hartmann Named New Rations Board Member, Succeeds Burns

J. Leo Hartmann, retired public school official, was appointed today as a member of the Mansfield rationing board, it was announced by James Bailey, chairman.

Hartmann succeeds Harold D. Burns, attorney who was an original member of the board. Burns resigned to accept an advisory position with the North Electric company, of Galion. The third member of the board is Emerson S. Weller, who succeeds Fred B Wolff, another original appointee, when the latter became service-safety director.

Hartmann, who resides at 36 Stewart avenue, retired from the public school system in 1938. At that time he was supervisor of study at Senior high school. Earlier he had served for 26 years as principal, at various times, of John Simpson, Hedges, and Newman schools.

The big job on the rationing board's docket now is sugar rationing, and the first registration in preparation for that was to start this afternoon at the county's high schools. The 500 wholesale and retail firms, restaurants, and industrial users of sugar were to register this afternoon or eveistry declared aerial reconnaissance photos showed that the population was carrying out a mass exodus from the bomb-wrecked city, the home of the big Heinkel aircraft works.

A British communique acknowledged "a good many casualties," fires and widespread damage in the German night raid on Norwich (Pop. 125,000). Nine persons were missing in the debris of a bomb-smashed hospital; rescue workers were still digging in the wreckage for trapped victims at daylight.

Seven Nazi Messerschmitts also bombed and machine-gunned an English southeast coast town this morning.

In the Russian campaign, Stockholm dispatches reported that Adolf Hitler had cashiered Lieut.-Gen. Engelbrecht, commandant of the 163rd German division, in a rage over Soviet gains on the Finnish front.

These reports said a shakeup of the entire German command in Finland was imminent, with Hitler determined to check the Russian counteroffensive across the still frozen Lapland front and in Karelia, north of Leningrad.

Hitler's field headquarters admitted that the Russians were developing "fairly strong" attacks in some sectors of the 2,000-mile battle line from the arctic to the Black sea, but asserted they were being repulsed with heavy Soviet losses.

The Nazi high command specifically claimed "local successes" as German troops attacked in the central (Moscow) and northern sectors.

A bulletin from the Red army headquarters said Russian troops bloodily repulsed tank-led German forces which had sought for two days to drive wedges into Soviet lines on the central front, killing more than 1,000 Nazis.

On the North African war front, British headquarters reported "considerable patrol activity" and said Axis columns in a southern sector of the desert campaign "withdrew on being engaged by our light forces."

An Italian communique said Axis artillery beat off attacks by British armored cars.

Reds Take Control Of Lake Ilmen Area

LONDON —(AP)— The Russians appeared to have won control of the entire region around Lake Ilmen today except for German pockets at Novgorod and Staraya Russa by capturing Borok, key rail town on the northwestern front.

The Moscow radio announced the victory at Borok, confirming earlier Stockholm reports, and military experts here said the advance flanked the German positions north and south of the big lake, 120 miles below Leningrad. They said German communications to the rear also were threatened.

Borok is on the railway from Novgorod to Staraya Russa, where the German 16th army had long been reported trapped.

BITTINGER HITS COOPER'S PLEA

Says Former Governor's Suggestion Not to Be Taken Seriously.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Plea of Myers Y. Cooper, former governor, that Democrats this year offer no opposition to the third term campaign of Gov. John W. Bricker was bitterly assailed today by J. Freer Bittinger, chairman of the Democratic state executive committee.

"Mr. Cooper," Bittinger said, "asks the Democratic party to do the very thing this war is being fought to safeguard against."

"His suggestion is not to be taken seriously. The people will not take it seriously. In the face of this brazen attempt to take from the people their constitutional rights the present governor should act."

Bittinger said he thought that Bricker should immediately repudiate the Cooper suggestion.

President Teddy Roosevelt gathered stamps for young friends who were collectors.

ASHLANDER DIES

Mrs. Mary Critchfield, Perrysville, Stricken With Heart Attack.

PERRYSVILLE — A life-long resident of Ashland county, Mrs. Mary Critchfield, 64, died at her home here Monday following a heart attack.

Surviving are her husband, William; a half-sister, Mrs. Olive McClure, and a half-brother, Frank VanScoyoc, both of Mansfield.

JAPS FOILED IN DARWIN ATTACK

Transport Sunk, Seven Planes Are Shot Down by Allies; Enemy Port Raided.

Zero fighter, bringing his score of destroyed enemy planes to two.

Lieut. Kiser, in relating his part in the aerial battle, said:

"I climbed 300 feet over the Japanese until I was right in the sun. I picked up the first formation and blew the engine right out of one. I saw a second burst into flames and poured a burst of fire into another Zero as he made for me. I dodged another which Morse promptly dropped."

One of the fighters shot down crashed into the sea with its guns still blazing, indicating that the pilot had died at the controls.

Monday's attack on Darwin was the first occasion on which the Japs used a formation flight which they favored in bombing assaults on Singapore.

The Japs used 17 bombers and nine fighters. The bombers swept over Port Darwin in five flights. Four times they used formations of three bombers. On the fifth flight they used five.

Defending anti-aircraft fire helped the United Nations airmen take a heavy toll of the Jap planes.

American and Australian pilots were credited with downing at least two of the bombers and two fighters.

Reports received from an advanced United Nations base revealed that aerial warfare around New Guinea is increasing, with the Japanese bringing in more fighter support.

Recent heavy losses by enemy aircraft may account for the larger numbers of fighters being employed by the Japanese, since their assaults have proved extremely costly compared with the little damage they have inflicted. In Saturday's attack on Port Darwin the Japs lost 11 of the 33 planes which participated, a ratio far too costly to be maintained.

Meanwhile from Port Moresby came a report that American forces now based on the Free French controlled island of New Caledonia beat off several attempts by Japanese planes to reach the island.

SEEK TO AID SMALL BUSINESS

Banking Committee Has Plan to Forestall Financial Disaster.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Immediate mobilization of the productive facilities of small business enterprises was sought by the house banking committee today as a means of expediting the war program and saving small business from financial disaster.

Committee members said they hoped for early approval of legislation to set up a small war plants corporation to represent and aid small concerns in obtaining government contracts.

Entering the second day of hearings on the legislation, unanimously approved by the senate earlier this month, the committee hoped to speed the measure to the floor.

Most committee members said they expected no opposition.

WHAT ABOUT FDR's PAY UNDER INCOME LIMIT? IT'S IN BOUNDS

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — How will Franklin D. Roosevelt as president of the United States at $75,000 a year meet his own proposal that net incomes should not exceed $25,000?

This question was put to one of Mr. Roosevelt's closest associates today—a man who has been at the president's side for many years — and here is how he answered it:

In the first place, under existing tax laws the federal government would take an income tax of approximately $33,649 and then New York state would exact an income levy of about $3,619. Thus these two income taxes would reduce the president's income by at least $37,268—almost half of his yearly salary.

At this point another question was put to the presidential associate. Doesn't the government allow the chief executive expenses for travel and other items?

The answer. Yes, but these funds are not sufficient. It has been costing Mr. Roosevelt approximately $20,000 yearly out of his own pocketbook toward the upkeep and running expenses of the White House. Furthermore, these extra allowances, covering travel and other costs incident to the White House are not taxable, and if there were any funds left at the end of the year, they would have to be turned back. But in view of the fact that the president is paying about $20,000 yearly out of his salary in maintaining the White House, he has a balance from his salary of about $17,732—considerably below the figure he has set as a ceiling for individual incomes.

The presidential associate then was asked about Mr. Roosevelt's share of the $1,089,872 estate left by his mother, Mrs. Sarah Delano Roosevelt, of which he is heir to nine-tenths.

The answer was that nothing will be available to the president from this estate for some time, that court proceedings will delay any settlement of it for at least a year.

ning, or Wednesday afternoon or evening.

Sales of all sugar stopped last midnight, and no more can be bought until the rationing program goes into effect. Consumers will be registered May 4-7 and given stamps permitting purchase of a half pound weekly for each person.

Meanwhile, the War Production board's order announced in Washington, cutting coffee deliveries 25 per cent, was looked upon as indication of a rationing program on that commodity. The order did not touch retailers, but wholesalers were instructed to "pass the cut along to customers as equitably as possible."

The WPB explained the move was taken to conserve supplies now on hand for the armed forces and civilian population, and to make present supplies go as far as possible.

The Mansfield rationing board, which has been meeting in the Chamber of Commerce assembly room, moved today to permanent offices on the 11th floor of the Farmers Bank building.

At Columbus, the regional bureau of the Office of Price administration today announced tire and tube quotas for Ohio counties for May. These included the folowing (figures are listed in the order of passenger car tires, truck tires, passenger car retreads, truck retreads, passenger car tubes and truck tubes):

Britain Presses Drive Against 'Draft Dodgers'

LONDON — (INS) — Men and women in Britain who hope to dodge National Service by "losing" themselves among London's millions are surprised at the speed with which the metropolitan police pick them up.

Labor Ministry officials and Scotland Yard experts, aided by former police officers who have returned as advisers, have created a technique for catching dodgers that is now reaching perfection.

By an intricate system of cross-checking of official lists, it is possible to keep track of everybody in the country for National Service purposes. As soon as anybody "vanishes," a hunt starts.

A former Scotland Yard official who is helping in this roundup said, "Our work is simplified by the tendency among would be dodgers to try the same tricks.

Comb-out of "dodgers" is going ahead among aliens in Berlin and among British people now in the United States. Government officials are investigating credentials of Britons known to be in the United States and Canada. They can be made to return for service by having their passports revoked.

"The governor's sole purpose in alloting this money, and in this manner, is to build his political fences throughout the state while funds for defense are only needed in a limited number of counties where the war industries are located," Hoover said.

in the nation yesterday was President Roosevelt, who gave as his employer "The people of the United States." Many other high officials also registered, including scores of members from both the house and senate, supreme court justices, and cabinet officers.

Although the figures will be revised somewhat when the cards are transferred to the correct boards, the unofficial registration totals indicated that there are approximately 5,100 men in Mansfield in the 45-64 age classification, 960 in Shelby, and 2,000 in the rest of the county.

Throughout the nation, approximately 40,000,000 men between the ages of 21 and 64 have now registered under the draft law. Men 18 to 20 will be the next ones subject to registration. Like the 45-64 group, they are not liable for military service under the law, but they are being urged to enlist.

cent in clothing before rationing would become necessary. Items that might have to be rationed, it was believed, would be those that come from foreign countries. The shipping bottleneck may create serious shortages.

The war production board last night cut by 25 pepr cent the deliveries of coffee to roasters and wholesale receivers. WPB officials said the war had "created uncertainties about future supplies, since merchant ships that normally transport coffee are needed to carry war materials." Most of the coffee used in the United States comes from Latin America.

Several weeks ago the WPB cut in half the amount of tea—another item that must be imported, mostly from India—that may be sold.

Sugar will be rationed beginning next week. On May 15 rationing of gasoline in eastern states becomes effective.

FACES CHARGE

Cleveland Night Club Owner Held For Violating Blackout Law.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Police today arrested a night club operator as the first person to be charged with violating the city's new blackout ordinance.

The defendant, Nathan Britzman, 39, permitted an electric sign to flash after midnight at the Boogie Woogie club on Euclid avenue.

he blackout ordinance forbids display Tof electrical signs between midnight and dawn. Maximum penalty is a fine of $500 and a six-month workhouse term.

BOMBS FOR TRAINING

SAN DIEGO, Cal. —(U.P.)— City officials here are not content with theorizing. They have purchased six dozen incendiary bombs at $7.20 per dozen for use in training auxiliary firemen, domolition crews and volunteer defense workers.

FDR MESSAGE BREWING NEW LABOR FIGHT

Critics Say President Almost Eliminated Unions From Share War Program.

Roosevelt's plan to stabilize wages by executive action through the machinery of the war labor board as well as his evident opposition to suspension of the 40-hour week and to the enactment of anti-strike legislation. Mr. Roosevelt predicted his stand on the assertion that organized labor had "voluntarily given up its right to strike during the war."

The labor question was brought before the senate today on a special order permitting Senator Connally (D., Tex.) to move to take up his bill authorizing the government to seize strike-bound war plants, freezing working conditions in such plants but permitting the adjustment of wages by a special board.

One group of senators had four amendments ready to insert in the bill. These would establish a 48-hour work week at regular pay in war industries, freeze open and closed shops, limit union initiation fees and outlaw jurisdictional strikes and boycotts in war plants.

In the house, Chairman Vinson (D., Ga.) said the naval affairs committee would vote tomorrow on his bill to establish a 48-hour week, freeze union status and limit war profits.

Criticism of the president's stand on the labor question came from Democrats and Republicans alike.

Most farm state legislators complained that the president was asking the farmer to accept lower price ceilings while contending that industrial wages should be maintained at present levels.

Battle Looms Over Income Ceiling

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Roosevelt's proposal that net individual incomes be limited to $25,000 a year during the war encountered a sharp division of opinion today among members of congressional committee handling tax legislation.

While many were reluctant to discuss the matter publicly, there were enough expressions of dissent to make it appear likely that a full dress battle might develop.

Two highly-placed members of the house ways and means committee predicted privately that the committee would reject the proposal for a "blanket clause" to limit business profits to a fixed sum and to keep individual salaries down to a $25,000 maximum by taxation.

On the senate finance committee, Senator Taft (R., O.) declared "I object strongly to the principle of a flat limit on all individual incomes."

"Why $25,000?" He asked in a statement. "Why not $10,000. Why not $2,500 if we accept the principle of giving a man only what he needs to live on.

"A literal compliance with the president's plan would disrupt further the business organization of the United States, particularly the smaller manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers, cripple many of our great private charitable and educational institutions and community chests, and bring great distress to many older individuals living on their life savings invested in stocks."

American Fliers Bag 11 Jap Planes

CHUNGKING—(AP)—The American Volunteer group of fighters shot down eleven Japanese fighters without loss to themselves at 10 o'clock this morning when 27 Japanese bombers and 20 fighters attempted to raid an AVG base in Northern Burma, dispatches from Junming said.

Thwarted at the AVG base, the Japanese nevertheless swept on to Lashio, where they set great fires and bombed the airdrome.

day morning, when a small group of colored selectees from all three boards will leave for an induction center. This group will be entertained at a dinner and party tomorrow evening at the Colored Elks' hall, 186½ North Main street. A colored band will play at the send-off Saturday.

Saltzgaber announced that the next big "going-away" party for a group of selectees will be held on the evening of May 11, when three contingents that will leave on successive days soon after that date will be entertained at the Legion home.

The three draft boards here have not received official word as to the effect here, but Major Carl Wahl, chief of the induction division of the state selective service, said at Columbus that a small number of Ohioans classified as 1-B will be called up for induction in the near future.

Wahl said the men in that classification were qualified physically for limited military service only and would be stationed where their abilities were applicable.

CRIPPS REPORTS

Says Only Good Will Result From India Proposals.

LONDON —(AP)— Sir Stafford Cripps, opening a house of commons debate on India, predicted today that "nothing but good will result" from the British war cabinet's proposals for Indian self-government which he took to New Delhi but which were rejected.

"Owing to events in the Far Eastern theater of war (where the British have been suffering reverses) accompanied by highly skilled though grossly misleading propaganda from Axis sources, an atmosphere of defeatism and anti-British sentiment was showing itself in certain sections of Indian opinion," said Sir Stafford, lord privy seal and Prime Minister Churchill's lieutenant in commons.

Referring to his talks in India with Louis Johnson, a representative of President Roosevelt Cripps said "there was no question of any American intervention, but only the personal help of a very able American citizen."

YOUTH TRAINING LARGE ITEM IN FORD'S SCHEME

Producing Master Craftsmen One of Auto Magnate's Many Hobbies.

(By United Press)

DETROIT — One of Henry Ford's hobbies—making master craftsmen of youth—is paying big dividends in speeding his firm's $1,000,000,000 war production program.

Ford's school facilities have mushroomed until now they are the counterpart of a modern university. A total of 10,000 student mechanics today are accommodated in Ford educational enterprises.

An additional 7,500 to 8,000 Ford employes will be trained for bomber production in the $500,000 school under construction adjacent to the $58,500,000 Willow Run bomber plant by mid-year.

The pioneer automobile builder long has preached: "Industry must take more interest in young people, or there will be no industry." Ford himself has set the pace for training young men to work with their hands.

Oldest of Ford educational projects is the Henry Ford Trade school, founded in 1916. It now enrolls 1,800 boys of high school age, trains them in tool and die and electrical work, heat treatment, welding and auto mechanics.

Other school units include:

The Ford Apprentice School, which has an enrollment of 4,000. It trains youths beyond high school age and already working as Ford employes. They receive specialized training in some trade they wish to master.

The Ford Aircraft School, second largest unit in the manufacturer's industrial school system, trains 3,000 apprentice students for jobs in the vast Pratt & Whitney airplane engine factory in the heart of the River Rouge plant.

Still another is the Navy Service School at the Rouge plant. This was built by the Ford Motor Company at a cost of $3,000,000 and donated to the U S Navy. The school gives 1,800 sailors mechanical training for 90-day periods in various buildings throughout the Rouge plant.

The newest addition to the system—to be known as the Ford Airplane Bomber school—will be open only to Ford employes. The bomber plant, called the biggest airplane factory in the world, eventually will employ about 100,000 men, virtually all of whom will be trained at the bomber school. It is geared to produce a four-motored bomber every hour at peak production.

Frederick E. Searle, head of the Ford school system and first instructor hired 25 years ago, believes the bomber school "will go a long way toward overcoming a future shortage of skilled aircraft workers."

Specifically, it will play a major part in converting the 85,000 workers normally employed at the Rouge plant to jobs along the bomber assembly lines.

Adventures Pile Up In Life of Boston Terrier

EDINBURGH, Ind —(INS)— Togan, or Teddy—take your choice—is a playful Boston terrier with the following remarkable record:

During the space of three months he was lost twice, found three times, was known by two different names, and had stories about himself in the newspapers.

Here is what happened from the time Mrs. M H Wallick of Indianapolis found the dog.

Unable to trace the owner through a Bartholomew county license tag on the dog's collar, she persuaded an Indianapolis newspaper to carry a story about the dog.

Mrs. Marie Thompson, of Edinburgh, claimed "Togan," the name she had for him, as the dog her children lost on a trip to Indianapolis. The Thompson family had bought the dog from a truck driver.

In the meantime, Hovey Parmeless, a farm resident near here, read the story of Togan in the paper and believed the dog to be the one he had lost three months previously. He went to the Thompson home with 20 photographs of "Teddy," as he knew the pet, and identified him as the dog which formerly belonged to the Parmelee family.

$24,000 ESTATE UNDER CONTEST

Will of Mrs. Mary Frederick Being Contested in Suit Filed in Court.

An action contesting the will of the late Mrs. May L Frederick, former secretary and director of the Mansfield Business Training, had been filed today in common pleas court by cousins of Mrs. Frederick.

The will, drawn up only a few months before Mrs. Frederick's death last October, left the bulk of her $24,000 estate to associates at the business college and to Myrtle Taylor Gray of Coshocton, who was appointed executrix of the estate.

A bequest of $2,000 also was made to the Bowery Mission of the Young Men's home in New York and $1,000 to Father Flanagan's Boys Town in Nebraska.

Seeking to break the will are Byrd L. Lauch, Jessie L Lauch, Nina K Lauch, Marie L Lauch, all cousins who reside in Zanesville, Julia Lauch Morrison, and John G. Hahn. Under the will they would receive nothing from the estate.

The action names the executrix of the estate and the beneficiaries as defendants. Attorneys Henkel and Gongwer of Mansfield represent the plaintiffs.

Mansfield Area Girl Scouts To Be Guests Here

An evening of folk dancing and games is in store for Mansfield Girl Scouts, troop and recreation leaders from Mansfield and several other cities Thursday at the Y. M. C. A.

Miss Janet E. Tobitt, native of Sussex, England, who has been identified with Girl Scout organizations in this country as an instructor of music and folk dancing in national training camps, will be in charge of the program.

Brought here by the Mansfield Girl Scout Council, Miss Tobitt will lead the audience in a program of dancing at the close of her own talk and demonstration.

She has added American folk songs, the sea chanties from New England and the Negro spirituals from the south to her native program and has published several books of songs and dramatized ballads.

Scout executives from Canton, Massillon, and Wooster are expected to attend the session beginning at 7 30 p. m.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, APRIL 28, 1942.

Pity the absent minded housewife who just happened to remember, this morning, that she's entirely out of sugar.

Remembering the accuracy of James A. Farley's predictions in 1932 and 1936, it is heartening to hear him quoted as saying, "The Allies can't lose."

With that American bomber crew interned in Russia, there'd probably be no serious protest in the event of Russia deciding to use the bomber on the eastern front.

Formula To Control Living Costs

REDUCED to its simplest form, the three thousand words that went to make up President Roosevelt's message to congress yesterday might be encompassed in a brief recommendation that Americans practice the Golden Rule for the duration of war.

Except for the needed exercise of governmental guidance and supervision of the destiny of 130,000,000 people in time of peril, voluntary observance of the Golden Rule would go far toward accomplishments which the president deems essential to winning the war and avoiding national chaos in the post-war period.

Heavy taxation; limits on prices; stabilized remuneration; purchase of war bonds instead of non-essentials; rationing commodities to assure fair distribution; reduction of installment buying; paying off debts, mortgages and other obligations—all of these things are no more than a restatement of sound principles adapted to the needs of war-time economy.

Burdensome taxation is a natural consequence of war, with its tremendous costs, and this will be accepted to the limit of ability to pay—but there must also be reasonable ceilings on living costs—with limits on all elements that make these costs—else needless hardships and deprivation will quickly be suffered by millions of people.

Rationing of scarce commodities is another wartime essential, made so by departure from the thought expressed by the Golden Rule, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

Such a comparatively few are affected by the suggestion that no individual net income should be "in excess of $25,000 a year" that majority thought on this subject will be academic rather than personal. To the average person, disturbed by high taxes, rising living costs, requirement for war bond purchases, multiplied contributions, and other financial obligations—all to be met within a nominal fixed income—the proposed maximum will sound like the height of affluence. But to President Roosevelt, recipient of a family fortune, and to those keyed to living standards in the $100,000 to $1,000,000 range of annual income, the idea of a $25,000 maximum may give the impression of making near approach to abject poverty.

Said the president: "The result will mean that each and every one of us will have to give up many things to which we are accustomed. We shall have to live our lives with less in the way of creature comforts than we have in time of peace. Our standards of living will have to come down."

Judged by their attitude thus far—since Pearl Harbor—a vast majority of the American people are ready, willing and anxious to do their utmost in working, paying and sacrificing to help win the war . . . asking only that the agencies of government—and everybody associated therewith—do likewise.

Learn What You'll Have To Know

SUGAR RATIONING, on the basis of half a pound per week per person, is rapidly approaching reality and retail sale of sugar has been suspended, pending registration of all sugar users.

The four days starting Monday, May 4, which have been set aside for sugar rationing registration are expected to accomplish the biggest registration job ever attempted in so limited a time.

A ration book is to be issued for each sugar user but application is to be made by only one member of each family group, who must be prepared, however, to answer questions about each member of the family, such as height, weight, color of eyes, color of hair, age, exact name, and the like.

The total amount of white and brown sugar in any form, which is owned by the family at the time of application, must also be stated, with a maximum penalty of ten years imprisonment, $10,000 fine, or both, on conviction of any person knowingly making a false statement.

Special emphasis is placed on the necessity of knowing, to the pound, just how much sugar is in possession of the household. Stamps will be taken from the books for all sugar in excess of two pounds per person, and if more than four stamps have to be removed issuance of the book will be withheld until later.

Registration is to be made at the elementary school building nearest the home of each applicant.

Because of confusing and conflicting statements it will probably be just as well to allow the matter of extra sugar for the canning season to run along until after the rationing plan becomes operative.

War Suspends Patent Rights

AMONG important rules waived in war time are the patent laws, by which scientists and inventors are normally guaranteed the fruits of their labors. This is a large, complex subject, just now of great interest.

Foreign patents useful for war purposes were seized by the United States in the last war, but to a large extent restored afterward. The president says there is to be no such generosity this time. Those who have attacked us will lose such property rights as part of their punishment. For remuneration, the foreign owners of such patents must go to their own government. That seems fair enough.

As for the patents on inventions and processes owned and controlled in this country, the problem is not so simple. They involve production of chemicals, machines and articles of a thousand kinds. The inventors, or other owners to whom they have sold their inventions, have developed property rights often very valuable and widely held through stock companies.

The government is said to have seizure powers, usable in emergency and held over from the last war. But the compensation problem is not clear. The impression given at Washington is that patent rights needed to fight the war will be used without compensation, on the ground of public necessity, for defensive purposes that benefit everybody, including the owners. This seems a reasonable attitude.

APRIL SHOWERS BRING MAY FLOWERS

Returning Soldiers May Decide Nation's Course At End of War

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — Woodrow Wilson must be delighted, wherever he is, at the action of the Republican leaders in Chicago in adopting a resolution, which declared their realization that the United States "has an obligation to take an active role in maintaining the peace of the world after this war is over. It is what he fought for, back in 1918-1920, and what wrecked the Democratic party temporarily.

By the same token Henry Cabot Lodge, grandfather of the present senator, must be turning in his grave at the idea, Lodge having been the man who first packed the foreign relations committee against Wilson's international ideas, and then torpedoed the Versailles treaty.

BUT the fact remains that this Chicago action of the Republicans may not mean a thing when the war is over. It will be the sentiment of the returning soldiers, which is more likely to determine what is done politically after that.

It was the sentiment of the returned soldiers, more than any other one thing, which produced the wave of isolationist sentiment in 1920. True, the votes in the Harding landslide were piled up by the various national groups inside America. But it is probable that if it were not for the strongly isolationist stand of the returned soldiers the national groups would not have had the courage to make the fight their own ancestral ties urged.

It may well be that when our boys come back from Australia, and Africa, and Europe and the East Indies they will believe that it is the duty of this country to police the world—or at least our joint duty with certain other countries. But that was not the reaction to the last war. They came home, many of them, hating the one ally for which there had been the most sentimental feeling inside the United States up until then—France. They came home, those of them who had gone into occupied Germany, with a friendly feeling for the German people. A smaller proportion came home hating Britain, though some who had gone overseas hating Britain liked her better when they came back.

But, human nature being what it is, there is no telling what their feelings will be this time. They may come home with a decided view that we should make ourselves strong and let the rest of the world ruin itself if it wants to commit suicide.

THE whole point is that political promises are not worth very much. There is the well-known rule on Capitol Hill that one congress cannot bind its successors. No congress, in short, can pass a law which a later congress cannot repeal.

This is even more true of party platforms. Just before the outbreak of the last war many outstanding Republican leaders, notably William Howard Taft and Elihu Root, a former president and a former secretary of state respectively had been ardent advocates of the "League to Enforce Peace." They even made a fight to modify the diehard opposition to the League of Nations by the Republicans in the senate when Wilson was having his troubles.

So this is not the first, but at least the second, flip-flop of the Republican leadership on this question of isolationism.

Value of "Blood Banks" Explained.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

CONSIDERABLE confusion exists in the minds of most people concerning the new term "blood banks," and as a matter of fact, considerable confusion exists in the minds of a great many doctors about them.

The Red Cross has been largely responsible for attempting to establish in various cities and communities permanent blood banks which can be used immediately for blood transfusions in case of emergency. I have heard of a number of people who have been very much perturbed because in Mid-Western cities no such blood banks have been established, but it must be remembered that for some time hospitals have been preparing for emergencies of this kind.

For an ordinary blood transfusion blood is removed from the vein of a donor and put in the vein of the patient or recipient. This means whole blood—plasma and red cells. Unless this blood is typed properly, there will be an accident.

Right Type Essential.

Blood is typed in two particulars: the serum of the donor is mixed with the cells of the recipent. These are then observed to see whether they clot—aglutination—or whether the one dissolves the other—hemolysis. In either of these events the typing is not proper. It is therefore necessary in any blood transfusion to know that the type of blood of the donor and the recipient fit.

I have heard, to show the efficiency of the German army, that whole regiments are put together of the same blood type so that if blood transfusions are necessary, they can be done immediately, without typing, from any man in the regiment.

Now most hospitals have a list of blood donors, several hundred in number, who have been typed and who are available and who are willing to be used in case of emergency. This will take care of any emergency likely to occur, short of actual emergency warfare.

Kinds of Blood Banks.

But this has nothing to do with what is known as a blood bank. In one kind, called a plasma bank, blood is removed from a donor, typed and centrifuged in an anticoagulant mixture so that it is ready for immediate use.

This has no red blood cells in it, but because it replaces blood mass it is very valuable in shock. Another form called the serum bank is simply the serum of blood which has been allowed to clot and then the serum is decanted off. This is not considered as efficient as the plasma bank, however.

A third form is the dry plasma, which is the easiest to keep and preserve, but pathologists of my acquaintances are not all agreed as to the usefulness and harmlessness of the dried blood plasma.

The plasma banks are put in a refrigerator and used cold as it has been found that they are less dangerous in a refrigerated state than at body temperature. The difficulty with the plasma bank is the amount of refrigerator space which is required. In the refrigerator, the plasma blood bank apparently keeps indefinitely. I have known them to be used five or six months after the blood was drawn without doing the recipient any harm.

Undoubtedly in the near future in all communities such blood banks will be available and I know there is a great deal of activity in the medical profession to see that such banks are provided so that any anxiety on this score can be allayed.

Patents Still Granted Germans; Dies Berated By Own Committee

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—One factor behind Roosevelt's seizure of Nazi patents was the fact that even since Pearl Harbor, the U. S. patent office has been granting patents to German companies.

Furthermore, some of these patents have been granted to the German drug monopoly, I. G. Farbenindustrie, whose gag-hold on the American chemical and pharmaceutical business has been exposed by the justice department and the Truman committee.

To be sure, the Germans, after receiving American patents, assigned the rights to American affiliates, but they are not obliged to do so. The Germans still can get a valid patent in the United States, war or no war, in fact are protected by U. S. law.

The patent office contends that the law makes it necessary to grant patents to anyone who fulfills the requirements—which is true. However, it is equally true that the moribund patent office and its super-conservative Patent Commissioner Conway Coe have leaned over backward against liberalizing the law in recent years.

Note:—Chiefly responsible for the current senate investigation of patents are Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming and Thurman Arnold.

Good Neighbor Drinks.

ONE of South America's brilliant ambassadors in Washington has found the cure for the proverbial hangover.

Compelled to toast the Good Neighbor policy night after night this diplomat went to Johns Hopkins medicos for advice.

"When I drink," he said, "I feel bad. Even if I merely drink wine, I suffer from heartburn. And I suffer even more if I drink whisky."

The specialist pinched and pounded the diplomat, and poured pink and purple fluids into him. After tests that cost a total of $150, the doctor offered the following prescription:

Before you begin drinking, take a jigger of olive oil. And after you have finished drinking, take a glass of milk.

The diplomat now follows the high-priced prescription with complete success. The Good Neighbor program is saved.

Dies Spanked.

IT'S a lucky thing for Congressman Dies that he was absent (in Texas) when the house accounts committee acted on his request for more investigating funds.

Besides being held down to $110,000—about a third of what he asked—Dies also was given a verbal shellacking that matched some of his own tirades.

An interesting feature of this castigation was that it was led by two members of his own committee—Representatives Joseph Casey of Massachusetts and Jerry Voorhis of California.

"I want it to go in the record," Casey declared, "that I and other members of the committee were not consulted on the recent unwarranted attack on Vice President Wallace and the Board of Economic Warfare. We didn't know a thing about it, until we read Dies' remarks in the press. This happens all the time, and I'm getting tired of it. I'm against congress spending further money on the committee unless the chairman holds regular meetings and lets us know what is going on."

Voorhis charged that Dies had not been authorized to begin the hearings on "espionage" he is now conducting in his home town in Texas.

"He acted without notifying the rest of us," Voorhis asserted. "I also think the committee should hire a competent lawyer, if it is to continue, instead of depending on a converted radical to direct its investigations."

This shot was aimed at J. B. Matthews, Dies' chief investigator, once a fellow-traveler.

Others who got in some hot licks at Dies were Representatives John Coffee of Washington and Thomas Eliot of Massachusetts. Eliot pointed out that the FBI had "exonerated" BEW and other government officials smeared with Dies' red paint.

Note: The man chiefly responsible for slashing Dies' request from $300,000 to $110,000 was Representative John Cochran of Missouri, scrappy chairman of the accounts committee, long an outspoken critic of the Texan.

Anti-Nazi Martyr.

HIGH U. S. Catholic authorities have received confidential word that Dr. Hein Hoeben, general secretary of the International Catholic Press Agency, died some weeks ago in the dreaded SS prison in Berlin as a result of severe ill-treatment.

No hint of Dr. Hoeben's tragic end has been allowed to leak out from Nazi sources. He was the second high official of the ICPA to die in this prison recently. The other was Monsignor Origer, vice president of the ICPA.

A dauntless foe of the Nazis, Dr. Hoeben fought them long before the invasion of Holland, his homeland.

His fearlessness infuriated the Nazis and they made repeated efforts to intimidate him. One tactic was anonymous telephone calls. His phone would ring and when he answered an unknown voice would say, "When we take over, you will get a bullet between your eyes."

To combat Dr. Hoeben's powerful press activities against them, the Nazis set up a rival Catholic press agency in Berlin, headed by a Quisling Dutchman. Dr. Hoeben exposed this so devastatingly that the Nazis were forced to abandon the scheme.

After the invasion of Holland, Dr. Hoeben escaped to France, where he was captured by the Germans, who tried to persuade him to become one of their stooge "collaborationists." He refused, and they threw him into the SS prison.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—When you see an actor in tights whose legs are symmetrically proportioned, don't be too sure they belong to the actor. They may belong to Dazian's.

Dazian's is an old theatrical costumer and fabrics house that is celebrating its centennial this month. The divine Sarah Bernhardt is with the immortals, and she is remembered as the perfect actress...yet beneath the make-believe and camouflage of the theater lies the grim fact that she had only one leg—her left. Few of this generation remember that she was a diabetic and that her right leg was amputated. It was Dazian's who provided the "symmetrical" to replace the missing limb, and for a decade after the amputation she continued on the stage in the height of her powers.

IT WAS Dazian's, too, that built the symmetrical that added two and a half inches to the calf of one of John Barrymore's legs, when he appeared on Broadway in tights in "The Jest." The great Mansfield wore symmetricals and almost every other actor whose legs did not measure up to the standards of the day.

The man who had the most to do with these symmetricals and who is president of Dazian's today is Emil Friedlander, a tall, easy-to-talk-to man with graying hair and laugh-wrinkles about his eyes.

He has spent 42 years in the business of costuming shows for Broadway and Hollywood productions, and the walls of his office, at 142 West 44th street, have grown into a sort of museum of mementos of great epics and times in the theater. . . .

In one frame are two cancelled checks—one for $50,000 left by the late Henry Dazian himself to the Actors' Fund of America, and another for $90,000, donated to medical research. . . . In all, Dazian left more than two million dollars to medical research, and if you care to glance through the directories you will find the name of the research fund that bears Dazian's name.

EMIL FRIEDLANDER has one of Sarah Bernhardt's slippers, a fragile, tiny thing of pink satin made by Meier of Paris, who, according to the legend in the slipper also made shoes for the Queen of England. He has personal notes from Belasco framed on the wall, which begged Mr. Dazian not to let the details of Belasco's new shows become a subject for gossip in the cafes of Paris.

Shortly after the last war, Mr. Friendlander hurried to Europe and bought up officers' uniforms of all the armies of Europe . . . These are now in Hollywood, and when you see motion pictures of today showing Italian, Russian, German, Austrian, Japanese, and French uniforms — the chances are that these are the ones he brought back with him . . . found mostly in pawnshops from the Volga to the Seine.

To students and writers of the theater Friedlander's library is a thing of envy . . . It is a storehouse of source material, from rare and hand-tinted patterns of Godey's day to costuming in all its ramifications and on through generations of factual records of the theater as well as the individual reminiscences of the stars who made the theater great.

Fishing Tackle Ban.

Apparently fishing fackle is not deemed necessary to bolstering up the morale of the nation. Thus the tackle industry has been ordered to cease the use of metals, plastics and cork in their production after May 31.

We do not believe this will occasion any great hardship or suffering among the disciples of Izaak Walton. They will have to learn to get along with whatever tackle they have, and be thankful they have that much. For the benefit of those who haven't the fancy equipment, we offer the comforting observation that some of the finest, fightingest black bass and speckled trout we've ever seen yanked from the water were brought out on the end of a rough pole cut from the mountainside. Fish aren't snobbish about equipment.—Ohio State Journal.

A Farmer's Diary

Planting Trees

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

TAKE no thought of the morrow" cannot well be applied to the man who takes delight in planting trees. Personally, I like to do this work, because it gives energy to my faith in what shall live and grow and bear good fruit perhaps a half century after I am gone.

Men who work for wages have paydays a week or two apart. A time of labor is followed almost immediately by reward. Farmers who sow wheat in autumn may look for harvest the following July; but the orchardist who plants his trees expecting to wait several years for a profitable return must possess unwavering confidence in an ever-changing world.

Realizing all this, I still got a thrill of real pleasure out of unpacking the large box of peach and plum trees that was unloaded on our barn floor one cold raw day last week.

Our whole family gathered around to help push the broad lid back and turn off the thick paper covering beneath it. There lay the new trees, tops toward the center, with tender buds and occasional blooms. The mat of roots at either end was covered with damp bog moss. The moist roots and the small trees smelt of life and growth. Although the day was cold, we cautiously ran our hands beneath the moss to get the pleasant touch of the fleshy roots, and felt the warmth of hope well up inside as we talked of planting time.

Later, I climbed the slope with the long-handled shovel on my shoulder, staked out the first row of holes, and dug them. The earth was moist, even though years of constant cropping and sheet erosion have impoverished the land. Occasionally I cut an angle worm in two—but there were too few of them. The deeper layers of earth, below the gravelly top, were moist, but solid. I made the holes deep and wide enough to give the small trees room.

Then the boys and I planted 50, for a start. I sifted moist loose topsoil about the roots, and tamped it with my feet. When I had planted several, the boys tried their hand. They did very well—and I forced myself to watch without comment until they finished. When we had three rows, in all, leaning slightly to the south, and west in order to be better braced against prevailing winds, we stopped for the night. It seemed to our prejudiced eyes that the three new rows of trees looked very proud and comfortable in the land of their adoption.

Plans are nearing completion for the house to house canvass of Crawford county for pledges for war bonds and stamps, which will be a part of the national program to determine the amount of purchases to be made during the coming year as a guide in setting up the nation's tax program.

E. Blair Ruhl, county chairman, has named community chairmen, who will be called together this week to complete arrangements for the canvass. Auxiliaries of the American Legion and V. F. W. will assist in the work in Bucyrus.

Approximately 20 officers who arrived last week to prepare the New York Central shops and the fairgrounds for the arrival of approximately 600 engineer troops who will spend a training period in Bucyrus, have established their headquarters in the shops.

Construction of 22 new army buildings on the fairgrounds have been started by the Ohio Construction company of Columbus, who have been awarded the contract for the work. Work of repairing buildings on the grounds is nearing completion.

The buildings and grounds will be ready to receive the men by May 15 and will be entirely completed by May 25, according to specifications.

TORNADO KILLS 100 IN WEST

750 Injured, Property Damage $2,000,000 as Twister Hits Boom Town.

skirts of the city, between 100 and 200 residences were damaged or razed to the ground. Many families were buried in the ruins of their homes. Roofs were ripped from residences and schools.

One merchant who refused to be dismayed by the disaster, was open for business this morning although the front of his grocery store was caved in and the roof torn off.

All telephone and telegraph facilities were destroyed by the disaster, but limited telephone service was expected later in the day.

The army was handling identification of the victims and officials said lists would be issued within a few hours.

As the terrific gale ripped into the city, leveling stores and business blocks like matchwood, workers leaving the ordnance plant in their automobiles were picked up from the highway and carried three or four blocks before crashing into adjacent fields.

The tornado cut a path of destruction through the business area and hardly a store was left standing on Main street. Brick structures three and four stories high were crushed in like cardboard. Scores were buried in the crumbling ruins.

Hail and rain accompanied the gale, adding to the desolation.

The tornado swept Mayes and Rogers counties, but except in Pryor the causalties were few. In nearby Talala, three were reported dead and one was killed at Tiawah. The storm just brushed the edge of Claremore, famed as the home of the late Will Rogers.

Many of the injured were rushed in ambulances to Tulsa, 45 miles to the southwest, and to other nearby cities. This morning Tulsa reported that victims were still "streaming in to the hospitals." Others were taken to Claremore and Vinita. All reported their hospitals were "jammed."

Just outside the stricken city the Whittaker state orphanage was spared from damage and was converted into a hospital to care for the injured. Schools, churches and public buildings also were quickly prepared as emergency hospitals.

Besides destroying communications, the disaster left the city without light and gas fuel. All roads were blocked, except by the most difficult detours and authorities were confronted by a tremendous task in their efforts to bring order out of the chaos.

The ordnance plant itself was reported not to have been damaged, although some of its trucks were wrecked. Five loaded trucks of one firm were smashed into worthless wreckage by the storm.

TAKES CONTROL OF CARS, BUSES

City of Cleveland Becomes Owner of Its Giant Transportation Unit.

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—The City of Cleveland today became the owner of the huge steel spider web that is the public transportation system of almost a million people.

The formalities of acquiring the Cleveland Railway company took place in the Cleveland Trust company, climaxing 30 years of civic efforts to turn the street car and bus facilities from private to public ownership.

The city, represented by Mayor Frank J. Lausche and other officials, turned over $17,500,000 in revenue bonds to a banking syndicate. The syndicate turned over checks for that amount to the city and the city gave the checks to the railway.

Walter J. McCarter, a vice president of the private company, became the new general manager of the Cleveland Municipal Transportation system at $11,500 a year.

The city council passed an ordinance putting 4,400 employes of the railway under civil service.

Frank R. Hanrahan, president, and Curtis Bennett and Waid Clark, vice presidents, today severed their connections with the railway company.

Cleveland has 10-cent fares. Tickets are sold six for 50 cents and a $1 pass is good for an entire week. The city contemplated no change in fare at once. Future changes will be dependent upon earnings.

DRIVER FINED $100

SHELBY—Sherman Swarer, R. D. 1, Crestline, was fined $100 and costs in Mayor W. R. Morris's court here Monday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving his automobile while under the influence of alcohol. Swarer was arrested by state highway patrolmen.

YOUTH INJURED

MILLERSBURG—Wm. Tallion, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Tallion of Nashville, is in Pomerene Memorial hospital here with a skull fracture and a broken left leg. He was hit by an automobile Sunday when he ran into the street after a ball. His condition is reported serious.

CLUB ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

New London Rotary Names Rodney S. Ward President.

NEW LONDON — Rodney S. Ward will head the New London Rotary club during the next year, according to the report of the nominating committee, made public at a luncheon Monday.

Assisting him will be Emory Weichel, first vice president, and Raymond N. Watts, second vice president. Joe Lash was re-elected club secretary, marking the thirteenth consecutive year he has held that post.

The program at Monday's meeting was presented by Rev. Paul P. Anspach, Lutheran minister of Ashland, who had spent several years in Tsingtao, Shantung province, China. Rev. Anspach gave a talk, using as his theme, "The Comparison Between the Chinese and Japanese."

Twenty-five were present, including four guests, Dr. G. W. Pollock, Carter White, Julius Bohn, and the speaker.

Mrs. Porterfield, Mrs. E. D. Gibson Present Program

When Grace Guild of the First Methodist church met last evening at the home of Mrs. J. J. Kindel, 435 Davis road, a very enjoyable musical program was presented by Mrs. E. D. Gibson and Mrs. Marie Porterfield. Mrs. W. R. Burkhart, Mrs. E. N. Cooper and Mrs. L. P. Gisa were associate hostesses.

Thirty-six members were in attendance and the following were welcomed as new members of the guild: Mrs. C. E. Church, Mrs. Carlton Smith, Mrs. F. L. Boals and Mrs. W. F. Haldeman.

Mrs. Gibson presented four of her pupils who comprised a violin quartet. They were Richard Beilstein, George Porterfield, William Klinger and Allen Sanford. Their selections were two Finnish folk songs by V. Novacek, "Air Melodieux," by Jacob Dont, and "Pavane Choral," by Paul Wacho. Piano accompaniment was played by Walter Simon.

Piano solos by Mrs. Porterfield were five compositions of Schumann: "Curious Story," "Frightening," "Dreaming," "Important Event," and "Soaring." Mrs. Gibson presented two Chopin selections, "Waltz in C Sharp Minor" and "Etude, C Minor."

Devotions were led by Mrs. E. G. Corwin. Next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. O. LaRue, Wooster road, on May 25. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Kindel and the associate hostesses.

Housecleaning Wrecks the Appearance

(By MME. QUI VIVE)

Just so often the home has to be pulled apart, dust dug out of hideaway corners. Closets must be overhauled, woodwork washed, draperies sent to the cleaners, pillows and mattresses subjected to the vacuum cleaner. It's a mess. But the satisfaction when the job is finished is simply overwhelming.

Worse to bear than all the hard work and the confusion is the aggrieved countenance of the man of the house who feels that the whole dusty business is a vile plot to make him uncomfortable. A splendid idea is to send him back to his mother until the ordeal is over. By no means must you throw out any of his old hats, shoes or pants. If you do, he will sob and complain the rest of your married life. A man never forgets an old hat. He may forget wedding anniversaries and birthdays, but an old hat is revered, its loss mourned.

A man fancies that housekeeping these days is largely a matter of pushing buttons. No button pushing will clean out the closet of a small boy who has stowed away dirty rocks, old sticks, broken roller skates and ancient bird nests. The vacuum will clean books, but it won't handle them. No means for washing pictures, other than a cloth, water and elbow grease. So it goes

We must urge the beauty clientele to take it easy, not rush

You can be pretty sure that, by the time the house cleaning is finished, you are going to be a grand old ruin, no matter how much help you have. You can't hire any one to go through dresser drawers, or tidy up a playroom. Every housekeeper likes to rearrange her china, look over the contents of the kitchen cabinet. And while she is doing that she might as well wash the shelves.

Hands get a bad break this season of the year because housecleaning means a certain amount of contact with dust. We hope that the rubber gloves are holding out because they are a good friend during the period of reconditioning the menage.

When polishing silver of furniture, light cotton gloves will serve. Don't say you can't work as well when you have them on. You have only one pair of hands; there's no sense in putting them out of form.

Keep your hair covered. Every night have a rousing hot soapy bath, lolling in the warm water to take the tiredness out of your bones. Before getting into the tub give your face a creaming. If the bathroom is steamy, so much the better. Cream and steam make a grand combination.

When it is all over, claim your reward. Give yourself an afternoon for a beauty spree. Have a facial, hand and arm massage, manicure, shampoo and finger wave. Go through the beauty hopper. And, during these delightful hours, close your eyes, rest, be thankful that the ordeal is over.

Pecan Meats In Sausages

No meatless days are scheduled for us so far, but they may come. So I'll just give you a tasty meatless dish and you can file the recipe for future reference. The Cook Book from which I am taking it is titled, "Camouflage Cookery," and is by Helen Watkeys Moore. It was published in 1918.

Today's Menu.

Tomato Juice or Clear Tomato Soup
Mock Sausages
Baked Potatoes
Leaf Lettuce Salad
Creamed Cabbage
Rhubard Pie
Coffee or Substitute

Mock Sausages.

2 cups pecan meats
1 egg
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup cooked wheat cereal
Dash pepper
1 tablespoon sage

Put pecans through meat chopper, add cereal, seasonings and last, the beaten egg. Make into round cakes, place on paper in bottom of baking dish, and bake 20 minutes in quick oven (400 degrees F.). Serve on hat plate with either white or tomato sauce.

Pitfalls of Love

(A sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

The captain of the state troopers looked at me with an expression that told me he had a certain sense of enjoyment in the dramatic bit of news he just had given me.

"I thought that would surprise you a bit," he said. "These men evidently knew you were on your way up here."

"Evidently," I repeated, trying to appear composed.

"The dame," could mean me only. Yet the precautions of secrecy my father had thrown around my journey were so elaborate and apparently so successful.

But patently they had failed. However, I had no time to consider that angle.

Finds Secret Leaked.

"I am very much surprised," I told the captain. "My father was sure nobody but our own party knew of our journey."

He took up the paper again.

"Number Two," he intoned. "I thought first that armored car was the government job we was to beat up here, when we passed it on the Merritt Parkway, but I didn't see no dame inside, so I though there was a chance it was some other outfit."

"Wait, please!" I told the captain, for I wanted to etch one point of that last speech upon my memory. "The government job we was to beat up here." I repeated to myself, "but I didn't see no dame inside."

That could mean only, I decided, that someone had "listened in;" had learned of my father's plan for the armored car even though it had been issued in code, and had discovered also our ruse for getting out of the hotel.

Gangsters Caught On.

But I could do nothing now more than fix the point in my memory, unless — yes, there was something I could do, and that immediately.

"Is there much more?" I asked.

"No, only a few words," he said.

"Please go on then," I answered.

"Number One—'Well, you made a wrong guess. The dame was inside, covered up. You remember the curtains was drawn. Maybe they got Heinie and Ernie, also the old prof and the other man, and have beat it back to New York.'

"Number Two—'But the note,'

"Number One—'They could have made him write it, couldn't they? They know ways, same as we do. But that ain't the question now. We've got to get word to Tony down in the city of what's happened. We've got to get hold of a telephone.'

"Number Two—'Just how, wise guy?'

"Number One—'We've got to get around one of these rubes of cops. Show one of 'em some dough and promise him a lot more if he'll just telephone my old mother and give her a message, so she'll know I ain't killed. He'll fall for it.'

"Number Two—'You ain't going to give 'em Tony's private number, are you?'

"Number One—'What do you take me for? No, it'll be that stationery store that takes messages for everybody. He won't know nothing nor nobody nor remember anything much if they question him. He'll just say an old woman come into the store and asked if there was a message for her.'

"Number Two — 'Okay. You know all the answers.'

"Number One—'Shut up, now, and let me think.'

"That's all they said so far," the captain concluded. "We're setting a man with an innocent face over 'em, and he's going to take their money and pretend he's going to arrange to send their message from the first telephone we come to. I suppose you want us to turn it over to you instead?"

"Yes, yes," I answered, in a frenzy of impatience, "and you will have rendered my father a most signal service in getting that address under that pretense. But all that can wait. You can get the long distance operator to find out what calls have come to this number recently, can't you?"

HOROSCOPE

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday April, 29.

Under an expansive and productive influence of the major benefit, much may be expected in the way of growth, increased finances or credit, enhanced prestige and popularity, especially with those in high places, although very definite dangers may attend erratic, strange, emotional or unstable behavior in handling these excellent openings. The mind and feelings may have strong pull in opposite directions, with tendencies to rash, extravagant and impulsive acts.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of excellent opportunities for growth, expansion, heightened popularity and influence, with good credit and financial increase, providing this opening is managed with sound principles segacious and well-directed manipulation. A proclivity to extravagant, indulgent, erratic or emotional tactics might endanger good prospects.

A child born on this day should have many excellent traits and talents, with sound constructive ideas and purposes.

MAKING THE BEST OF IT

Perfectly good bidding can get you into some nasty contracts, against which one opponent has a string of trumps as long as the maximum holding on your side. In many such spots, the best thing to do is to avoid the usual procedure of leading trumps right away, and work on the establishment of a winner or winners in some side suit which can be used to compel a ruff from the dangerous adversary.

South	West	North	East
Pass	1 ♠	2 ♥	2 ♠

There are times when even the soundest player, who hates to raise his partner's possible four-card suit when holding only three trumps, must do it anyway as a preferred choice among evils. After North's 2-Heart bid, East was not strong enough to bid 3-Clubs, could not bid 2-No Trumps with no heart stoppers, and yet was too strong to pass. His only recourse was what he did, and West, having opened very weakly, passed.

That 2-Spade contract was played at several duplicate tables, but was beaten at several, although in each case North led the heart K and switched to the diamond 3 and to the A, South returning the diamond J to the K. Those who were set then took the spade K, J and A, and the club Q, A and K. The defenders then took all of the rest of the tricks, as the heart J went to the Q and A, the diamond Q and 10 won and for the final trick South had the spade Q against West's 4.

The declarers who made the contract, lost the first two tricks to the heart Q and the diamond A, and won the third with the diamond J to the K, whereupon they led the heart Q, the A taking it. The diamond Q enabled South to discard a heart. When the diamond 10 followed, dummy ruffed with the 9, forcing South's ♠ Q. That ended the defenders' trick taking, as the spade 8 was dropped after South returned the club J. If North had returned a heart after his diamond Q trick, West could have made his contract safe by discarding his last diamond.

After South bids 1-Spade, and North 2-Spades, what should East do with his freakish hand?

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER.

Mrs. Estel Mattingly, the former Cathryn Tatakis, was honored with a miscellaneous shower Monday evening at the home of her mother, Mrs. Myrta Marines, 153 South Diamond street. Fifteen guests were in attendance. Games and contests were diversions of the evening. Luncheon was served at a long table attractively decorated with lighted tapers and centered with a miniature bridal couple. Mrs. Marines presented her daughter with an electrical gift and the guests presented her with many miscellaneous gifts.

The colorful climbing shrub, bougainvillea, was named in honor of a French navigator, Louis Antoine De Bougainville.

NO SUGAR THIS WEEK!

Try these 6 Sugar Saving Tips

SEND FOR MY SUGAR SAVIN' RECEIPTS FREE!

1 Use honey instead of sugar on cereals and fruits. It blends deliciously with the nut-like flavor of cereals—turns them into exciting new treats.

2 Make more loaf cakes and frost the top only. Frost layer cakes between layers, on top but not on sides. Spry cakes are lighter—delicious unfrosted, too.

3 For a grand easy-on-sugar dessert serve light, tender Spry gingerbread in squares, warm, topped with whipped cream sweetened with a little molasses.

4 Serve canned fruit pies with tender, flaky Sprycrust. Boil down the sirup and you won't need sugar except a little with red pie cherries.

5 Serve piping-hot Spry biscuits with preserves or honey and your folks won't miss dessert! Try other Spry quick breads, too, see how light and tender.

6 Use jams, jellies and marmalades as fillings for cakes. Serve them also with French toast (sautéed in hot Spry) for a simple, easy dessert.

AND YOU ALSO GET A COUPON WORTH 10¢

"YES SIR, when you buy a can of Spry this coupon's worth 10c. An' you don't pay a cent of money for it, or for the sugar savin' receipts, either. Just mail me the disc from the top of a Spry can, that's all!

"The receipts are dandies—over thirty mouth-waterin' desserts. Most of 'em take no sugar at all, the others very little. But will you be sure to use Spry when you make 'em? For I want you to enjoy 'em at their delicious best. An' you won't get those extra-good Spry results with ordinary shortenin'. It just can't be done!

"Just send me a disc from the top of any can of Spry with your name and address."

MEN ACCEPTED BY ARMY FROM BOARD 2 LISTED

Draft Officials Here Told One-Third of Contingent Was Rejected.

Draft Board No. 2 today announced receipt of an official communication from Army officers listing names of men from the board's contingent which left for an induction center last Thursday who have been accepted for Army service.

As in the case of Board 1, approximately one-third of the group which left Mansfield was rejected due to faulty vision or other physical defects, or was held over for further examination. This has been expected, as many of the group previously were deferred for physical reasons.

Draft Board No. 3 was expecting official word today revealing the names of men in its contingent, which left last Friday, who were accepted for Army service.

Those accepted for service from the Board 2 contingent, as listed by the Army's communication, were as follows:

William Kopcial, 131 Arthur avenue; Paul Eugene Shields, R. D. 3; Albert Stanton Leedy, R. D. 1, Lexington; John Wilburt Cruse, 122 Parkwood boulevard; Samuel Angelo Martino, 440 Hammond avenue; Eugene Francis, 288½ North Main street; Lee Eugene Grobb, 110 Elm street; Charles Clinton Tansel, jr., 76 State street; Virgil Howard Mapes, 61½ East First street;

SOLDIER HOME

BUCYRUS—Pvt. Gordon Clady, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Clady, who was honorably discharged from the United States army recently, has arrived home.

Clady, inducted March 12, 1941, received a leg injury during his first month of service and has been confined to hospitals at Camp Wolters, Texas, and at Fort Sam Houston since.

INVITING THE ENEMY TO ATTACK

When an army is in hostile territory, every precaution is taken to guard against attacks. Carelessness invites attacks. Carelessness about Nature's warnings invites attacks in people too. Mrs. Elizabeth Keller, 714 Erie St., S., Massillon, Ohio, says: "I was careless about constipation and it brought on attacks of rheumatic-like aches and pains that had my back stiff as a board. That's all over now though. World's Tonic took care of me fine." Constipation is often a factor in stiff backs, joints and aching limbs. Heed its warning if you would be 100% efficient. World's Tonic contains many roots, barks, and herbs from various old countries where many of our strong and healthy ancestors originated. Get World's Tonic in the big bottle at Miller, Wm. T. Hursh, Weinberger and all other leading Drug Stores.

MORE PERMITS FOR REMODELING

Seven Certificates Issued at City Hall For Alteration and Repair Projects.

New home building in Mansfield may have been hit by Uncle Sam's recent stop-building order to save materials needed for war production but Mansfielders are still getting their homes into shape by remodeling.

Seven permits have been issued for renovation or small jobs around homes during the past week. The total amount of building to be done was estimated at about $2,000.

Five of the permits were issued for remodeling homes while two others were given for building garages.

Those getting permits were: Mrs. George Gernhart, 579 Sloane avenue, remodeling, $400; L. B. Paste, 190 Euclid avenue, residing and reroofing, $300; G. R. Gentry, 249 Greenlawn avenue, garage, $200; Mrs. Jacob Walery, 287 Lind avenue, remodeling, $300, and garage, $75; Goldie Smith, 718 Highland avenue, cement porch, $375; and Albert Wentz, rear 211 South Adams street, garage, and J. M. Owen, 329 Ohio street, reshingling, $400.

NEEDS STENOGS

Government Says They're Just as Vital as Service Men.

Registration of the nation's manpower has created an urgent need for stenographers in Washington and all persons wishing to apply for Civil Service positions of this kind may receive full particulars by contacting the local Civil Service commission in the postoffice building.

"Stenographers are as necessary in our national defense as are soldiers, sailors, and nurses," George H. Hoover, U. S. Civil Service examiner, said. He also assured prospective applicants that Washington offers adequate housing facilities at reasonable rates.

Detailed information about both jobs and residences can be obtained from Hoover at the Civil Service office.

INVEST IN FLAGPOLES

BENTON, Ill.—(U.P.)—Employes of the Old Ben mines in Franklin county decided they should show their patriotism. They contributed the funds and arranged for the erection of flagpoles at each of the company's mines.

GO FOR SODA POP

CAMP EDWARDS, Mass.—(U.P.)—Whether it's hot or cold, soda pop is a favorite drink of soldiers at this Cape Cod army post. On one of the coldest days of the winter, the men gulped down 17,500 bottles of soft drinks.

Research experts say that besides its value as a food, wheat can be utilized in 20 industries.

GIRL OBTAINS ORDNANCE WORK

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Five years ago pretty Roberta Burger came to Ohio State university to master pharmacy and cure humanity's ills with pills.

The war changed that.

In a few weeks Roberta, a comely dark-eyed brunet, will start to work in the laboratory of the Elwood Ordnance plant at Joliett, Ill., to help make explosives.

Miss Burger, the first girl graduate of the special OSU course in the chemical composition of high explosives, attended night school and paid her expenses with a day-time job.

CHAPTER XXXIV

He was dressing one evening when his Negro houseboy came in and laid a copy of the Evening Chronicle on the table. Parris glanced at it and saw a heavy, black headline — Asylum Doctor Makes Fortune Out of Asylum Deal.

The second headline, scarcely smaller than the first, said, It Pays to Be on the Inside.

"Dr. Parris Mitchell, staff physician at the State Hospital for the Insane, and the silent partner of Drake McHugh, real estate dealer, realized a cool one hundred thousand dollars on the purchase of the old St. George tract recently acquired by the state for the improvement of hospital facilities. It appears that this plan for expansion of the hospital has been afoot for some time. In the early summer Dr. Mitchell went abroad for a rest, it was said, and during his absence the real-estate firm acquired this land. When the hospital was ready to buy it paid the price of the real-estate dealers' foresight.

"Mr. Fulmer Green, elected this past November to the legislature, has promised that an investigation will be made."

There was a good deal more, all in the same outspoken vein.

Parris laid the paper before Dr. Nolan. "Have you seen this, sir?"

"Yes, I have."

"There's no truth in this, Dr. Nolan. I mean—if Drake McHugh put this through it was entirely without my knowledge."

Parris related in detail the story of his friendship with Drake, the gift or loan of the Tower money, the slow rehabilitation of Drake through being made to feel important and successful, and then the conversation with Drake and Randy just before Parris left for Europe.

"I signed some sort of papers, power of attorney among them. I had never heard of the proposed purchase of this land before I left, and I know that they—I suppose I have to say 'we'—that we didn't own it when I left."

Dr. Nolan sat very still in his chair until Parris had finished.

"I knew all of that, Dr. Mitchell."

"You knew it?"

"Here's the story, Dr. Mitchell. The suggestion that we attempt this purchase and expansion was made by Senator Depass. You were already in Europe — had been there for a month or more. I inquired right away about this property. We had actually talked once or twice to the St. George brothers long ago about this purchase, but they wanted too much money. After the estate was being settled I thought of it again, but I never mentioned it to anyone. Senator Depass acted on his own initiative. Your friend Drake McHugh bought the place up even before Senator Depass came to see me."

"What about the price?"

"It was appraised and the price found reasonable. There's something behind this, of course. Has anybody on that paper got a grudge against you for anything at all?"

"Not that I know of. I haven't many friends, that's a fact, but I thought I had no enemies at all."

"You're evidently mistaken. Well, we'll see after a while what's hidden in the woodpile."

"Shouldn't I make a denial right away?"

"No. Let's find out who's after you, and why."

The undertone of irony and bitterness was strange and surprising coming from Dr. Nolan.

"You know this—this, what's his name?—Fulmer Green?"

"Since childhood."

"What's he like?"

"Braggart, bully, coward, and liar. He made a circus out of the Singer trial and hanged the boy to enhance his position as prosecuting attorney."

"Green got anything against you?"

"Not that I know of. Couldn't imagine anything from that quarter."

"Queer, isn't it?"

"Dr. Nolan, you gave me my post here—pretty much on faith. You've made it an interesting one for me—I hate to make any kind of trouble for you."

"Stuff. Gave you your post because we had a first-rate report on you from Seiss in Vienna. You're a good man at your job. Trouble! Fiddlesticks."

"What shall we do?"

"Nothing."

"Nothing?"

"Go on as before. I've got some influence in the board and in the legislature."

"I don't like publicity."

"Well, you're not the kind that'll go through this world without it. You might as well get used to the idea. You're sort of conspicuous, in a quiet way!"

Dr. Nolan laughed, and Parris smiled slightly.

"Well, well, if you don't mind, I'll just use you for bait for a while. I want to know what's behind this. There's something. I think Wardlaw, who runs this paper, is a skunk. You'll see that Miles Jackson will write a very different piece about it. Might just be that your old chum Mr. Green doesn't overlook anything that'll make him appear to the voters as a watchful public servant."

Parris called Drake and Randy to reassure them, knowing they would be in a frenzy of worry, even more disturbed because they would not have been able to reach him. He sounded cheerful, but when he turned away from the telephone his head ached, and he felt cold and empty. He remembered once when he was a little boy that someone had thrown a dirty snowball at him which spattered a new overcoat. He didn't know who threw it, and he wondered why they had wanted to. He felt the same way now.

Next day Parris had a call from Mrs. Skeffington—a peremptory invitation to tea.

Mrs. Skeffington sat near the fire which glowed behind an elaborate apparatus of brass fender, andirons, and screen.

Parris bowed over the long skinny hands.

"I'm awfully glad to see you."

"Glad to see you, too. I hear you've been skinning the state out of a hundred thousand dollars."

"I didn't."

"Piffle. Of course you did. Dogone smart trick. Congratulate you."

Parris laughed. Mrs. Skeffington began to fuss with tea things. "I'm sorry the Colonel didn't live to see it. Hundred thousand! Bless me!"

"Parris sobered.

"All right, all right. Spout your story. Did that fellow, Drake McHugh, actually have anything to do with this?"

"Everything. I was in Europe."

"So I heard. Smart. Didn't think Drake had that much gumption."

"Well, his wife Randy—"

"Oh ho! So that's it. Little gal's got the brains, eh?"

"She is smart. She's a fine girl, Mrs. Skeffington."

"I dare say, I dare say. Peculiar though — whole business. Man's legs cut off. Girl marries him. What for?"

Parris would have resented this from anyone else, but he understood Mrs. Skeffington.

"Fond of those two, aren't you?"

"Yes."

"Loyalty's scarce nowadays. Dying out, along with most everything else worth talking about."

"I'll tell you about this real-estate business if you really want to know."

From where I sit . . .

by Joe Marsh

A FEW weeks ago, I had occasion to visit some friends of mine in Nebraska.

Nebraska certainly is a great State. I like Nebraska. I like those immense cornfields that seem to stretch from horizon to horizon. (Plenty of wheatfields in Nebraska, too.)

But the thing that interests me most about Nebraska right now is the very important social experiment the beer people started there several years ago.

Beer itself is naturally a beverage of moderation. Yet, all too often, people are inclined to blame beer wrongly for any misconduct of the customer or the proprietor in a place licensed to sell beer.

So, the brewers got together to see what they could do about this. They weren't really responsible for their retailers . . . in fact, they're not allowed to control retailers. But the brewing industry worked out a plan by which it cooperates with the public authorities to eliminate bad conditions in the minority of places whose conduct would reflect on the law-abiding majority.

The beer people urge proprietors of retail places to conduct them properly and to obey the law. They urge consumers to cooperate, and ask the public generally to report law violations to the authorities. They send warnings to careless retailers and if conditions are not corrected they take the case up with the authorities. Naturally the authorities and the public have welcomed this as an added force in building respect for law and order.

That program is now operating in many states — and with the Nation at war, brewing industry organizations cooperate with civil and military authorities to assure good conditions in beer outlets around the army camps and naval stations.

Somehow, to me, that's a mighty important, public-spirited effort. I don't know of anything like it ever having been tried before. If people really help the brewers with that program they'll be doing a great thing for the country.

Merry and Joe (Gas Flame) Work For Victory on Two Vital Fronts

★ Meet Merry—she represents gas service on the home front. You've seen her good work in the past and now her job is to keep the home fires cooking, heating water, refrigerating and home heating under war conditions. Health, thrift, morale for home and family are important parts of her responsibility. She's busier than ever, filling her niche in the war program, and there's a glow of Victory in her clear, blue flame!

★ Meet Joe — he represents gas service on the industrial front. His is the vital job of supplying fuel for making guns, planes, tanks, ships, shells and other materials of war. It is efficiency, flexibility, dependability, speed like his that war industries demand now. He's working harder than ever before to meet those demands — and he burns with pride that he is able to help his Country in its drive to Victory!

On the home front — on the industrial front — gas is serving your community and America in the all-out war effort. Yes, today, gas is "doing double duty" but with a single purpose — to help win the war.

Plan Rigid Control of Transportation

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

There certainly is something rotten in Germany when Hitler has to order his puppet reichstag to grant him power of life and death over the people.

Obviously it means he is encountering trouble which he figures can be handled only by strong-arm methods.

This significant development coincides with the swelling of the revolt among the peoples of the occupied countries, and the growing reluctance of the other European members of the Hitlerian pact to continue to sacrifice their own people in order to provide blood-transfusions for Nazidom. We see this disposition in Rumania and in Hungary and, what is of greater importance, in Italy, which used to be stroke-oar in the Fuehrer's galley until the crack of his whip no longer brought the old response.

One of the things for us to watch, and for Herr Hitler to keep a sharp eye on, is the durability of the Italo-Nazi alliance. As a matter of fact it long has been obvious that Italian loyalty to the Fuehrer isn't the cement which holds the original Axis brotherhood together.

It isn't strange, therefore, to get a report from neutral Turkey that secret negotiations for peace are being undertaken in Rome with the Allies. Now there may or may not be a sound basis for this report but from my own knowledge I am confident that whether or not the Italians actually are feeling about for peace, they would jump at it if they were free to do so.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Kilgallen

CERTAINLY this has been the toughest theatrical season within the memory of man or Lee Shubert—on in which plays were slaughtered in their cradles, authors spent weeks plucking barbed objectives out of their hides, and actors reeked into Sardi's, staggering from newsprint blows on the morning after every premiere.

Yet if I were a playwright with a finished manuscript of any merit I should rush to get it on the boards as quickly as possible, if only to succor the desperate and despairing drama critics.

I have been watching these boys carefully of recent evenings, and I have detected a new auro about their earnest and intelligent brows—an aura that spells, as plainly as if the lads were wreathed in neon signs, "PleaseGodletthisbeagoodone."

The normally carefree, reckless and happily ruthless reviewers are becoming morose and introspective. They sit in Bleeck's or Sardi's or the Algonquin and their deportment is cheerless as they spoon the meringue glace or sip the Martini. They type out their reports at midnight, and, reading between the lines of their most recent plannings, you can detect an almost apologetic tone as they swing the axe over each new turkey.

At opening nights, critics who formerly would have joined the Foreign Legion rather than laugh at a line or applaud an exit now tremulously await a chance to show their appreciation and approval.

It's sad, really. Strong, self-reliant men in whose hands a typewriter is a deadly weapon now—fling money to passing mendicants on the sidewalks at intermission time, smile graciously at utter strangers in the theater, and generally deport themselves like Boy Scouts eagerly watching for a good deed to do.

I noticed handsome John Anderson laughing with relieved merriment the other evening when someone on the stage spoke a joke, and it was only a few nights ago that I heard George Jean Nathan drop a kind remark about an actor.

Of course this is no state for the theater to be in, but do not pity the producers and the actors and the playwrights. Pity the critics, and imagine with what a mixture of nervous hope and fearful anticipation they now watch an act one curtain rise.

For although honesty and the clear lines of duty compel them to call a bad play a bad play, there is nothing in their critical contracts which says they may not hope beforehand that it will be a fine and glittering success.

There is nothing which says that they may not, on the afternoon of an opening, send rabbits' foots (feet?) to all the members of the cast, dispatch a boutonniere of four-leaf clovers to the producer and nail a horseshoe over the box office window.

There is nothing at all which says they may not do this and as a matter or fact I have it on very good authority that it is exactly what they are planning to do.

With the rubber and gasoline rationing really becoming acute, I foresee a silver lining and a new field of commerce opening up for dance instructors, of the Arthur Murray ilk, who cater to the leisured and well-to-do. If Mr. Murray is wise, he will launch a department of Walking Instructors, who will teach this hitherto unfamiliar method of locomotion and travel to Broadwayites and members of cafe society.

Since cars will be unavailable and the subway is out of the question, these folk are going to need a new means of getting from place to place, and who knows but what walking may be the solution. A sturdy young man or woman familiar with the subject could do very well, I suspect as a tutor to the formerly taxi-mad.

The first move, of course, is to convince Gothamites that walking is popular, ye fashionably exclusive. Second, it will be vital to get across the idea that anybody can learn how to walk, with proper training. After that, such refinements as new styles of walking, proper walking clothes, select walking clubs, and the like, will naturally follow. May become quite a fad, like skiing.

RECORD LOOMS FOR OHIO ON PORKER INCOME

Economist Sees Hog Business Holding Up, Urges Change in Marketing Times.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Ohio farmers appear well on the way to setting records this year in hog marketing and income from porkers.

They produced a 21 per cent larger than average crop last year and then promised to boost that 17 per cent in 1942, starting off with a 5,000,000-head fall crop.

Lyle Barnes, Ohio State university rural economist, predicted today "the hog business will hold up pretty well."

The national hog crop last year was estimated at 85,000,000 head, only 2 per cent less than the 1939 record. The total may hit 97,000,000 this year.

Barnes cautioned Ohio farmers to plan to market their spring hog crop earlier next fall or late in the winter to avoid the November-through-January rush to the packing plants.

The possibility is that packing plants will be unable to process the unusually large intake of farm animals then, but the crop could be handled if spread out over a longer period than usual, Barnes explained.

Farmers are guaranteed a hog price of 85 per cent of parity but at the most recent parity price estimate—$11.63 a hundred pounds on March 15—actually received a market average of $12.80, the highest since 1926 or 110 per cent of parity, Barnes reported.

He attributed the high price of hogs on three factors.

1. The seasonal sharp decline in hog marketing since mid-January.
2. The active domestic demand for pork and hog products.
3. Heavy purchases of pork and lard by the government.

There seems little chance of a drop in hog prices in the coming months, Barnes declared.

"The farmer can make plenty of money on hogs at the present favorable ratio between corn and hog prices," he said, adding that the farmer is getting about $1.50 a bushel for corn fed to hogs although the grain would bring only 90 cents a bushel as grain.

GIVES LECTURE

300 Expected for Nutrition Meeting Here Thursday.

Three hundred Mansfield and Richland county women enrolled in nutrition courses under the direction of Richland county Council of Nutrition for Defense will unite here Thursday for a lecture and demonstration at John Simpson auditorium.

Dr. Lawrence E. Kunkle, professor of animal husbandry at Ohio State university, will be the speaker and the program has been set for 2 p. m. Only members enrolled in the courses will attend the session and admission will be by card.

The county council headed by Mrs. W. B. Board now has seven 20-hour classes in session. One class recently completed its training. Country home economic teachers and home service directors provide the instruction that is in line with the federal nutrition program.

CANADA LIFTS BAN ON DRAFT

Electorate Ballots 5 to 2 to Permit Use of Any Conscription Method.

(By International News Service)

OTTAWA, Ont.—By a smashing majority, the Canadian electorate released the government from its pledge not to conscript manpower for overseas service and gave parliament a mandate today to use any method it sees fit to raise men to fight abroad.

With the exception of Quebec where the French-speaking element fought conscription to the hilt in the 1914-18 war, the nine provinces gave an overwhelming affirmative vote in yesterday's plebiscite.

Returns which had rolled in shortly after midnight from all parts of the country covering 3,000,000 of the votes cast, showed the electorate favored untying the government's hands by more than five to two. It is estimated upwards of 4,500,000 voted; but the final results will not be known before May 5 when the vote of 500,000 members of the armed forces serving abroad will be known.

Only a smattering of the British Columbia polling has yet reached Ottawa because of the difference in time; but indications are the Pacific coast province vote combined with the overseas vote will make the grand total affirmative vote three to one.

Of the three Atlantic provinces, early morning returns showed Prince Edward Island had voted 80 per cent in the affirmative; Nova Scotia 78 per cent and New Brunswick 75 per cent. Only 28 per cent of the Quebec electorate voted affirmatively; but in Ontario, the other thickly populated central province, 83 per cent voted to release the government from its pledge.

WICKARD URGES U. S. FARMERS TO INCREASE WHEAT STORAGE

(By Associated Press)

ENID, Okla. — The nation's wheat farmers were urged today by Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard to start building more farm storage at once and was told that future production goals limited to 40,000,000 acres for flour milling might be necessary to maintain parity. Excess wheat would go to industrial uses, he said, adding: "Wheat farmers face some of the toughest problems in American agriculture."

"Storage space is already crowded. We have a year's requirements of wheat on hand and "with the kind of yields in prospect, there will be a tremendous shortage in storage capacity for the country."

Seven cents per bushel storage allowance will be available if the quota system is continued, Wickard said.

He reiterated statements of a year ago that no loans on wheat could be made unless the quotas are approved May 2.

Pointing out that in other wheat surplus nations prices to producers were much under those to cooperating American farmers, he estimated that with loans and payments the latter would get about $1.25 per bushel this year.

Those who look back to the $2 and $3 wheat of the first World war think that with a bigger war, more demand for wheat will develop, reason faultily, Wickard said. Then the United States was the great exporting nation. Now Canada, Australia and Argentina have surpluses.

HEADS DISTRICT

City Health Nurse Named Chairman at Session.

Miss Mabel Husted, Mansfield health department nurse, was elected chairman of the public health section, District No. 5, Ohio State Nurses' association, at an organization meeting of public health and industrial nurses in the Mansfield area last night.

Miss Emma Yarmon, nurse at the Charles Mill National Youth administration resident center, was elected vice chairman, and Mrs. Robert E. Rogers, city nurse, was named secretary.

Named on the nominating committee were Miss Mary Ellen Spriesterbach, Miss Ethel Kelly, and Miss Faye Chamberlain. The program committee includes Mrs. Fred Wilkinson, Mrs. Harold Adams, and Mrs. Harold Mitchell.

The new organization has a membership of approximately 35 public health and industrial nurses from Mansfield, Ashland, Shelby, Millersburg and Mt. Vernon.

Next meeting of the group will be held June 2 at the home of Mrs. Fred Wilkinson, 252 Cline avenue.

ASHLAND COUNTY RESIDENT DIES

Rosswell Richards, 61, Succumbs Following Long Illness.

ASHLAND — A life-long resident of Ashland county, Rosswell Richards, 61, died at his home here Monday following a long illness.

Surviving are his widow, Lucy; a son, Donald K., of Fremont, and two grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m., Wednesday at the Evangelical church. Rev. S. S. Davis, pastor, will officiate. Burial will be in Nova cemetery.

Laff-a-Day

"I would have yelled 'Fore,' if I'd even dreamed of hitting it the first time!"

Although her visit was not publicized, employes at the Mansfield-Leland hotel believe that Mrs. Jonathan Wainwright, wife of the commander of the valiant American-Filipino troops which held Bataan so long and are still holding out in Corregidor in the Philippines, was a guest at the hotel a few days ago. They say that a woman, who registered late one evening and left early the next morning, told the maid just before she left that she was Mrs. Wainwright. No one in the hotel had realized that the woman who registered as Mrs. J. R. Wainwright, was the wife of the famous commander.

It was quite a family affair for a while at Prospect park, during selective service registration of men between 45 and 64. Two brothers, Robert and William Young, came in to register, and waited in line with the others. It turned out that they were in the line being registered by their mother, Mrs. Emma E. Young, a volunteer worker who has assisted in each draft registration to date. Robert, who is 46, and William, who is 51, both served in the first World war. A nephew, Robert, 26, is an Army sergeant, stationed at Wright Field. The family resides at 399 Sherman place.

S. W. LOSH DIES

Resident of Mansfield For 22 Years Succumbs.

Samuel Winton Losh, 72, died this morning at his home, 30 Bradford avenue, after a lingering illness.

Born Sept. 16, 1869 in Knox county he came to Mansfield 22 years ago. He was married to Cora M. Spohn, Dec. 24, 1894. He was a member of the Brethren church.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Cora Losh; two daughters, Mrs. E. H. Copen of Akron and Mrs. W. M. Bonnell of Mansfield; and one granddaughter, Mrs. Ruth Sellers of Akron.

The body was removed to the Wappner Funeral home where services will be held at 1 p. m., Thursday. Rev. C. L. Kern, pastor of the South Main Street Evangelical church will officiate. Burial will be at North Liberty, Ohio.

MRS. A. A. GARVER TAKEN BY DEATH

Ashland Woman Dies at Home Following Long Illness.

ASHLAND—Mrs. A. A. Garver, 63, died at her home here early today following a long illness.

Surviving are her husband; a brother, Dr. Carl Bratchi, of Akron, and three sisters, Mrs. Florence Moser, Mrs. Edwin Miller, and Mrs. Mary Kyser, all of Akron.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m., Thursday at the home. Rev. Norman Parr, pastor of West Salem Methodist church will officiate. Burial will be in West Salem.

POSTPONE RITES

Memorial Services For Late Capt. Parsel To Be Held Sunday.

Memorial services for the late Capt. Elmer Parsel of the United States Army Air corps, which were to have been held in Plymouth High school auditorium, have been postponed until Sunday evening, it was announced today.

Capt. Parsel, a native of Plymouth, and former instructor at Mansfield municipal airport, was killed in an airplane accident in the Far Eastern theater of war shortly after he had been awarded the Distinguished Flying cross for extraordinary courage in battling the Japanese over the Philippines.

ODT OFFICIALS URGE CURB ON ALL MOTORING

End of Automobile Traffic By Fall Seen Unless Drivers Use Care.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Government officials today planned to clamp down rigid controls over the nation's entire transportation system, even to the point of telling a motorist how far he can drive each year.

Non-essential train and bus travel may come under restrictions at a later date, it was said.

Unless tires are conserved, it was warned, there may be no automobile transportation at all by the fall of 1942. Joseph B. Eastman, head of the office of defense transportation, has sent letters to all governors and heads of cities of more than 10,000 population calling on them to start a "nation-wide war transportation program." He urged quick adoption of a three point plan:

1. Systematic staggering of business, school and working hours.
2. Group riding in private automobiles on a planned, neighborhood-by-neighborhood basis.
3. Improved regulation of local traffic to make possible more efficient movement of passenger vehicles, both private and commercial.

Eastman sent to the mayors copies of a brochure containing a master plan embracing the three points which has been put into effect in Pontiac, Mich. in the communication the ODT said:

"A sense of utterly false security exists in the private automobile owner's mind. He believes he can ride in the bus, street car or train when his car is gone."

The statement said in effect that this will not be possible since to make enough extra busses, street cars and trains "the national industrial effort would have to be turned from tanks and planes to busses, street cars, trains and tracks."

Pointing out that three out of every four workers depend on their own automobiles to get to their jobs, the statement said:

"If all of the 33,000,000 motor vehicles (operating in the United States) were equipped with new tires today, motor transportation would disappear entirely by the fall of 1944. But they are not all equipped with new tires—creeping paralysis would set in long before that date."

Wounds Ex-Wife's Companion; Slays 3 Children, Self

SANTA MONICA, Cal.—(INS)—An enraged Santa Monica father shot to death his three children and then himself, because he discovered his former wife with another man, whom he also shot, police announced today.

The father, Harry Fletcher, shot and seriously wounded John W. Carder, 26, when he encountered Carder with Joan Bradford, formerly Mrs. Fletcher.

Fletcher then hurried to his Santa Monica home, arriving there ahead of Santa Monica officers who were warned of the earlier shooting by Los Angeles police.

When officers reached the Fletcher home, they found the three children, Arline, 5½; Caroline, 4, and Rose Marie, 23 month, shot to death, apparently in their sleep. Fletcher was dead of a bullet wound through his head.

2 FACE CHARGES

Two motorists were arrested yesterday by state highway patrolmen for traffic violations on U. S. Route 42 just north of the city.

William Gilreath of Wilkesboro, N. C., and Robert W. Jones of Clarkston, Mich., both posted $16.30 bond each and waived appearance in municipal court. They were arrested on charges of illegally crossing yellow traffic lines.

They won't open the ballot box and count the votes of the Inter-City bowling tournament before next Sunday when officers of the association hold their annual meeting in Lorain.

But Al Vogel, manager of Colony alleys, is confident that Mansfield has enough votes in that ballot box to bring the tournament here next season.

"One guy at Lorain Sunday made the crack that it looked like Sandusky had gained the tournament for next year," says Al, "and I immediately offered to bet anyone in the house $25 that Mansfield had taken it with a margin of 25 votes or more. There were no takers."

* * *

There were 321 teams in the Inter-City tourney this year, including 40 from Lorain, which means that Vogel and the Mansfield City Bowling association have arranged to bring somewhere in the neighborhood of 280 teams, or 1400 visitors to Mansfield next winter over a period of six weekends.

Mansfield bowlers meanwhile have Vogel's promise that they will not be crowded off their home alleys for the duration of the tournament. Lorain ran the tourney off in six weeks on 12 alleys, and that's what will be alloted for tournament play here, leaving 12 for Mansfield keglers.

* * *

The keglers will take over the town, but it will be a peaceful invasion. UNLESS war conditions should force cancellation of the attack on the maples. In that event, Mr. Vogel would agree that war is all that Mr. Sherman said it was.

* * *

The Colony doubles and singles tournament scheduled to open May 9 for three week-ends of bowling won't be as big as the Inter-City joust, but it should brim with class.

A scratch tournament, it will attract only Class A bowlers, and Vogel doesn't even hope for more than ten doubles teams from Mansfield.

Already a dozen doubles entries have been received from out-of-town bowlers as widely separated as Columbus and Medina. Entries close Saturday.

* * *

Seems that keglerettes Mary McMullen, Margaret Baker and Sue Humphrey made the jump from alleys to links, Colony to Cedlridge, Sunday for their first round of the summer

Included in the athletic equipment filling Sue's car was that trusty bowling ball

"If I can't find the fairway with this little white thing, I will try it with this big ball," she's reported to have warned her companions

But she was only kidding. I understand her golf is just about on a par with her bowling

* * *

But if golf cuts were big enough to sink bowling balls, I still don't believe that would improve my putting. A basket, but big, is what I need.

Detroit Drivers Enter Midget Race

Roland May and Chet Warner both of Detroit are the latest entrants in the midget auto races to be held next Sunday at the Fairground

In addition to the midgets there will be 12 automobile thrill stunts

Indian Hurlers Tested

Harder's Comeback Bolsters Tribe Hopes.

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—The annual April speculation on the prospects of the Cleveland Indians turns more than ever on the merits of the pitching staff, which are about to be tested in the Tribe's first eastern tour, starting today.

* * *

That the Indian hurlers have done pretty well in the western circuit is attested by the mention of Jim Bagby as today's mound choice for the opening of a three-game series with the Athletics.

* * *

Bagby, in helping to boost Cleveland into a first-place tie, leads American league hurlers with a record of three won and none lost.

Against the Athletics Manager Lou Boudreau plans also to use Al Milnar and Vernon Kennedy.

Milnar has started three games, won one and lost none. Kennedy has had only one start, in which he gave up only five hits as the Indians beat the Browns 3 to 2.

Mel Harder is tagged for the opening game against Washington next Friday. The veteran lost a 1 to 0 decision to Chicago. He had to call on Harry Eisenstat for help, Harry giving up two more. Then Harder made up for his loss by pitching four-hit, shutout ball as the Tribe won from St. Louis, 2 to 0.

* * *

The best news about Harder, however, is that his once ailing arm felt stronger in the late innings than at the start, and gave no pain on the day following his pitching duties.

Pick Ten For Track Queen

Preliminary Meet For Grade Schools Booked.

Ten girls were nominated yesterday at the high school for the honor of Track Queen to reign over the all-Mansfield school relays at Stadium field May 6

The ten, who will seek election Friday morning are: Wanda Hess, Joan Porter, Jean Kelley, Jean Herring, Helen Ann Troll, Gretchen Anderson, Athena Poulas, Peggy Anderson, Mary Ann Linn, and Virginia Davis.

The relays will be divided into three sections, with high school tracksters contesting in an intramural meet, the two junior high schools tangling in a dual meet, and grade schools competing for their city championship.

A preliminary meet for the grade schools to eliminate contestants down to six in each event will be held Thursday.

Lure of Trips Made Him Star

But Kane never played a game for Indiana. In the locker rooms after his cross-country workouts he would hear the varsity stars talk of the fine trips to the Penn Relays, the national championships and the west coast.

Kane decided the trips taken by track men would be more fun than those taken by the basketball team so he concentrated on the former Decides To Operate With Same Teams.

Club league bowlers at their banquet last night at the Hotel Southern decided to operate again next season with the same teams in the title chase. All teams indicated they would be on hand for the 1942-43 season.

Jake Mayer was elected president of the league for next season, Danner Dalton, vice president, and Ernie Stauffer, secretary-treasurer.

All teams, from the championship Schoolmasters to 12th place Lumbermen's Insurance, and all bowlers with enough games to set a league average shared in the distribution of prizes.

* * *

Heading the individual averages was Art Hilborn with 194.39 in 87 games. Mertz had high single game for the season, 276, and H. Doolittle high series of 706.

EX-CAGE STAR WINS HIS WINGS IN NAVY

BUCYRUS — William Henderson, star basketball player here in 1939 and son of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Henderson, arrived in Bucyrus over the week-end from the Jacksonville, Fla., naval training field, the first Bucyrus service man to receive the navy's "wings."

The "wings" were given Henderson at a ceremony Friday at Jacksonville. He is to return to the naval camp May 9 as an instructor

SHOOTS PLANNED

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The Central Ohio Rifle league will hold the opening competition of a seven-match program at the Grove City Sportsmen's Rifle club May 3.

Dartmouth Runners Scored Relays Upset

Toledo Pushes Into Third

Gabby Hits Homer But Indians Lose.

Toledo has pushed into third place in the American association, leaving Manager Gabby Hartnett of Indianapolis a very disheartened guy.

Gabby poled one of his infrequent homers yesterday which swept two runs across in the fourth inning. Before long the inspired Indians had worked into a 5-1 lead over the Hens entering the seventh.

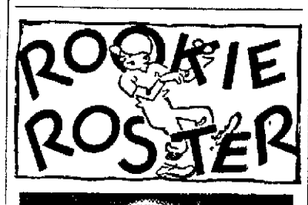
* * *

Then things happened. Toledo produced four runs off Oral Hildebrand, driving him from the mound. His replacement, George Gill, gave up a run in the eighth and the Hens took a 6-5 decision — their seventh in the last eight starts.

Moose Marcum, who blanked the Tribe the last two frames, singled Lin Storti home from third for the deciding marker.

Only other game was Columbus' 2-1 victory over Louisville in a 12-inning pitchers' duel which was broken up when a walk forced in a run. It was the Red Birds' first win in four games and Pitcher Harry Brecheen's initial triumph of the season.

Young Melvin Deutsch lasted until the final inning for the Colonels but gave way to Emery Rudd when he was touched for a double by Augue Bergamo's leadoff drive. A sacrifice and two intentional passes filled the bags But Rudd failed to groove the ball to Brecheen, walking him and pressing Bergamo home with the winning tally.



Steve Gromek, pitcher, Cleveland Indians.. Purchased from Flint where he won 14 and lost but two games last year....Began his career in the infield.... Only 22 years old....Native of Hamtramck, Mich., Detroit suburb.

JOHNNY PESKY, infielder, Boston Red Sox . . . Left-handed batter up from Louisville of the American Association, where he batted .325 in 140 games last year . . . Playing in Joe Cronin's position, although he is in I-A and may be lost to the service before the season is over.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—"Hilda the Bell Ringer," one of the Dodgers' noisiest fans, had adopted the Montreal Royals and follows them to Newark and Jersey City when them bums aren't at home.. Babe Ruth, back from Hollywood, called off a party the movie folks had arranged for him yesterday. Babe said he had overestimated his strength and wasn't in shape for a party after a long train ride.

Joe Louis Named As Pallbearer

CHICAGO — (INS) — Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis was announced today as one of the pallbearers for the funeral of Jack Blackburn, Joe's trainer and close friend.

Other pallbearers will be the champions co-managers, Julian Black and John Roxborough, Larry Amadee, Joe's new trainer; Sgt. Carl Nelson, Louis' bodyguard, and Frank A. Young, sports editor of the Chicago Defender.

* * *

Blackburn died last Friday from a heart attack after he apparently had recovered from a siege of pneumonia. Funeral services will be held at 1 p. m. tomorrow at Pilgrim Baptist church in Chicago.

HONEST GOLFER COUNTS 'EM ALL

JACKSONVILLE, Fla —(AP)— Dr. W. S. Randall, Pensacola, Fla., physician, counted all his strokes in the State Medical association golf tournament, finishing 18 holes with 169.

Commemorating such truthfulness, tournament officials gave honest golfer Randall a special prize.

WILDCATS IN SCRAP

EVANSTON, Ill. —(AP)— Five of Northwestern's last seven grid captains are in the nation's armed forces, including Al Lind and Wally Cruice, 1935 co-captains; Steve Reid, 1936 leader; Don Heap, of 1937 vintage, and Dick Richards, 1940 captain.

Buckeyes Hold League Lead

C-Loop Keglers Plan Banquet Next Monday.

Buckeye Beers maintained their one-game margin over Safety Cabs for leadership of the Commercial "C" league at Colony alleys last night as each team scored a shutout victory.

The Cabs turned in the league's high total for the night with 2554, while Mayer Drugs had high game of 906.

* * *

C. Need swept individual honors with a 628 total on games of 212-180-236.

The C-league will hold its banquet at Sons of Herman next Monday night at 6:30.

A-LEAGUE GOLFERS ORGANIZE FRIDAY

The News-Journal "A" league golfers will meet Friday night at 8 o'clock at Possum Run golf club to reorganize for the coming season.

As many of the A-leaguers of last season are now in the armed forces, replacing them may be a difficult job, which makes this meeting probably the most important of any held in recent years. All bowlers and backers are urged to attend.

Bowman And Carpenter Win

Build Decisive Margins In Quintuple Meets.

Reds Lose Only Game Played in Majors.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(AP Sports Writer)

The major leagues open their first intersectional strife of the season today.

It is impossible to evaluate the Brooklyn Dodgers on their record of winning nine out of 11 games from the Boston Braves and Philadelphia Phils and no one will be sure of the surprising strength shown by the Cleveland Indians until they are tested against the New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox.

At the outset there are three series that stand out—the Detroit Tigers invasion of Boston in the American league and the Brooklyn at Cincinnati and New York at St. Louis struggles in the National league.

* * *

The Tigers have come up with unexpectedly fine pitching and the New York Giants with extra-base hitting to hang around third place in the two leagues. Some of the credit for their high estate, however, must go to the collapse of the Chicago White Sox, who currently are couched in the American league sellar, and the Cincinnati Reds, who are in seventh place in the senior circuit. Both these clubs were, and still are, expected to wind up near the top.

The Reds ran into another setback yesterday, 4-3 in 11 innings, by the Chicago Cubs. For the Cubs victory meant a tie with the Giants for third place.

All of the other clubs had an open date.

Keglers Count Dough In ABC

Lowest 5-Man Mark Guessed at 2,670.

COLUMBUS —(U.P.)— A lull in high scoring at the American Bowling congress today inspired alley statisticians to attempt to calculate the minimum money score in the five-man event when the 42nd ABC ends May 15.

* * *

After much juggling of figures, the mathematics boys came up with 2,670 as the lowest aggregate which will grab a slice of prize money when the final maple is toppled in team competition.

This total is one point lower than the minimum money score at last year's ABC in St. Paul. There are 1,150 cash prizes in the team division and 666 of the 2,982 regular teams who have taken their turns to date produced scores of 2,700 or better.

Scoring was low yesterday. Fred Thoma, Chicago, posted a 688 in the singles for the best aggregate of the day. Jack Bielak and Henry Czerwinski of Milwaukee registered 1,218 in the doubles. The Stroh Bohemian Beer squad of Detroit, five-man champions in 1934, came up with only 2,628 for this year's effort. Wolverine express of Muskegon, Mich., paced last night's five-man shifts with 2,796.

Technicolor Musical.

"Song of the Islands," the technicolor musical production at the Ohio introduces Betty Grable and Victor Mature in an island romance, Jack Oakie in comedy moments, and Harry Owens and his Royal Hawaiians plus a background of hula belles and Hilo Hattie. Set in a small outpost in the Pacific the story concerns the efforts of Thomas Mitchell and his daughter, Miss Grable, to keep the island unspoiled by civilization. George Barbier and Billy Gilbert are also in the cast and the picture features a series of island song hits.

Stage Show.

The Gay Nineties Revue, patterned after the type that was familiar to audiences several decades ago, takes over the Madison stage Wednesday for a two-day showing. The performance will bring back memories of some of the old songs and entertainers, including Lillian Russell and "Two Little Girls in Blue." Joe Termini heads the revue with his comedy character, "The Music Master." Other acts in the production, in addition to a troupe of dancing beauties, includes Jack Lavier, "The Man on the Flying Trapeze"; Mel Hall, a de luxe bicycle rider; "Two Deans," presenting feats of strength; Guy Cherney, singer, and Balton, entertainer. Lupe Velez in "Mexican Spitfire at Sea," with Leon Errol is the screen attraction.

Romantic Comedy.

A playboy turns boxer just to show a girl he is made of the right stuff in "Right to the Heart," opening Wednesday at the Ritz. Joseph Allen, jr., Brenda Joyce and Cobina Wright, jr., top the cast of the comedy that shares the bill with a mystery farce, "The Body Disappears." Jane Wyman and Jeffrey Lynn are teamed in the latter that has to do with a trick played upon a potential bridegroom at his bachelor's night party.

Detective Story.

The exploits of a society detective who combines romance with his work are depicted in "The Gay Falcon," opening Wednesday at the Park. George Sanders enacts the title role and Wendy Barrie plays the girl who persuades him to investigate a series of mysterious thefts. By accident he is mistaken for a part of the robber ring. Allen Jenkins and Gladys Cooper are in the cast. Gene Autry in "The Old Barn Dance" is the second attraction.

GIVES ADVICE ON BLACKOUTS

WILMINGTON, Del.—(U.P.)— If you plan using paint to blackout your windows, do the painting on the outside or resign yourself to life in a house of mirrors.

Paint experts at Du Pont research laboratories warn that paint applied to the inside of window glass serves to make mirrors of the outside. The glass reflects every glow from the outside and would make the building a perfect target after bombing planes had dropped flares.

The best type of paint to use is flat paint. The color should be black, dark brown or olive drab. Plate glass, however, should not be painted with dark paint, because of heat absorption and possible breaking of the glass.

RITES WEDNESDAY

MILLERSBURG — Services for Polk Carpenter, Killbuck, who died at his home Sunday, will be held at the Elliott funeral home here at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday. Rev. J. Hubert Smith, pastor of Killbuck Christian church, will officiate. Burial will be in Killbuck cemetery.

CYCLES RECOVERED

GALION—Police have reported that the three bicycles believed to have been stolen over the weekend have been recovered. The bicycles belonged to Boyd Gifford, Robert Shaw and Michael Dougherty.

Father Tried To Collect For His 'Extra' Children

STAMFORD, Conn.—(INS)—As the crowd roared with laughter a father of six children stormed out of the Internal Revenue office still insisting that the government owed him $800.

It all happened during the rush to beat the deadline for income tax payments. The man, who had a foreign accent, approached Theodore Isaacs, one of the agents, and said he had earned $1,600 on WPA work during 1941.

Since he was allowed $400 for each dependent child, he figured out that his exemptions totalled $2,400, hence the government owed him $800.

Isaacs tried to explain that the dependency allowance was only credit. But the father was not easily convinced. He appealed to other agents, but got the same answer.

Then he went home, quite dejected.

The largest rural settlement of people of Belgian origin in the United States is in Wisconsin.

2—Card of Thanks

WE WISH to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all the relatives, friends, and neighbors for their sincere kindness shown us during the sickness and death of our husband and father, Jacob Berlo, to Rev. Saleste, to the Wappner Funeral Home, to the city firemen and to the Masonic Lodge for their many services. Also to those who furnished cars and sent flowers.
Mrs. Jacob Berlo
and Children (C-k)

WE WISH to thank kind friends and neighbors, the elders of the Christian Apostolic church for their consoling words and all those who sent flowers during the sudden death of our beloved husband and father.
Mrs. Andrew Miller, Jr.,
and Daughter, Idella.

WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The News-Journal meets a need which can hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also courteously acknowledges the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed, or whose names or addresses are not known.

A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6, ask for Miss Lane or Miss Stone, either will be glad to render whatever service and advice you need

GIVEN BOARD TO WRITE HISTORY

ROCKDALE, Tex. — (UP) — George Sessions, author of "Hold Autumn in Your Hand," tried to enlist in the Air Corps, but was turned down.

"How about something in the writing job, then?" he asked army authorities.

He was accepted and will write a history of Southwestern aviation schools.

Perry said his job is not a paying one, "not even one of those dollar-a-year things." He will, however, be stationed at Randolph Field, where he will be furnished with board and room.

STOCKS DISPLAY FAIR STABILITY IN DAY'S TRADE

Leaders Stay Unchanged or Move Up Fractions in Early Proceedings.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—A fair amount of stability was exhibited by the stock market in today's early proceedings.

At a quiet opening, issues unchanged to up a shade included U. S. Steel, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, and General Electric. On the offside were Boeing, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber and American Telephone.

Boardrooms studied the first quarter figures of General Motors which disclosed that, due mainly to transition from civilian to armament production, net income for the company dropped to 48 cents a share from $1.44 in the same 1941 months.

Notice was taken of the federal reserve compilation estimating loans to industry, commerce and agriculture by member banks in 101 cities for the week ended April 22 decreased $74,000,000.

DARKEN COAST

Army Rules Order Dimming Of Tri-State Atlantic Area.

NEW YORK —(INS)— The army tonight begins enforcement of a war time order dimming lights along the New York, New Jersey and Delaware coast.

The new regulations, designed to safeguard American shipping from being silhouetted against coastal glare, will extend fifteen miles inland and calls for the darkening or shadowing of every light above the fifteenth floor in New York City buildings.

In the battle of Gettysburg six Confederate and five Federal generals were killed or fatally wounded.

WORK HELD UP

Construction Snagged As Workers Walk Out In Labor Dispute.

CLEVELAND —(INS)— The steel and iron construction industry remained at a standstill today as a joint arbitration board prepared to meet tomorrow in an attempt to settle a wage dispute which is holding expansion of 14 northeastern Ohio war plants.

Workers began leaving their jobs last Tuesday when their demands for $1-a-day raises were not met. They are paid $1.75 an hour.

STAGE REVUE

Office Workers Will Present Show to Employes In War Factories.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— The men in war-busy shops—like the men in the camps—are going to get a musical revue, too.

Sixty typists, clerks, receptionists, secretaries, inspectors, engineers and instructors from the war department's Cleveland ordnance office today staged the dress rehearsal of "All Out for Victory." The show has its premiere tomorrow.

LINE UP FOR PRICE BATTLE

Farm State Senators Claim Support of Silver Bloc in Opposing FDR.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Farm state senators today claimed the support of the silver bloc as they prepared to fight what they called administration attempts to "depress" farm prices.

Farm bloc members, who have defeated the administration in two legislative battles since the outbreak of war, interpreted President Roosevelt's anti-inflation message to congress as a challenge to fight over agricultural prices. They indicated willingness to accept the challenge.

Support of the senate bloc, they said, would represent 22 votes in addition to their normal strength which is considerable.

The president said in his message that the only price guarantee to farmers should be 100 per cent parity. The price control bill does not permit the price administrator to operate on farm prices until they have reached the highest of a series of levels, one of which is 110 per cent of parity.

Chairman Ellison D. Smith, D., S. C., called a meeting of the senate agriculture committee today at which the message will be discussed.

What was tantamount to formal notice that the bloc would fight was served by Sen. John H. Bankhead, D., Ala. His contention, in a senate speech, was that parity price ceilings mean less-than-parity prices for farmers.

Support of the silver bloc was claimed on the basis of a meeting held last week by senators of the 11 silver-producing Mountain states. This group, it was said, agreed to join the farmers in a common fight against repeal of the silver purchase act and of agricultural "safeguards" in the price control bill.

FUNERAL SET

Rites For Rollie F. Miller To Be Held Tomorrow.

Funeral services for Rollie F. Miller, prominent Mansfield insurance dealer and former member of the board of education, who died yesterday at his home, 300 South Main street, will be held at 4 p. m., tomorrow at the United Presbyterian church.

The body will remain at the Jones Memorial until 3 p. m., when it will be removed to the church where services will be conducted by Rev. Willard C. Billica of Kenmore, N. Y., assisted by Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran church. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Church and business associates who will serve as active pall bearers are W. W. Crouch, F. Proctor, O. F. Garver, A. E. Courtney, Henry Senert, Dr. W. H. Wolford, Milton Sherman and John Collusi.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Alice Patterson Miller; two sons, Roland F. Miller, at home and Lieut. Dean Watson Miller, stationed at Fort Bragg, N. C., and one sister, Mrs. Harry Manner of Mansfield.

SEIZE ISLANDS

Japs Claim Occupation of All Vital Bases In Moluccas.

TOKYO (From Japanese Broadcasts) —(AP)— Imperial headquarters announced today that Japanese naval forces had "occupied all strategically important bases" in the Molucca islands and along the northern shore of the western, or Dutch, part of New Guinea.

This campaign, a communique said, was begun March 31 and completed April 19. The Moluccas are due north of Australia and west of New Guinea. (Bases in this area might be used for attacks on Australia's north coast.)

RENT PROBE STARTED

CLEVELAND— (AP) —An investigation to determine if five Ohio areas had complied with federal recommendations to reduce and stabilize rents was launched today by the office of price administration. The localities included Canton.

Principals In Madison Senior Class Play

With final rehearsals being held today and tomorrow the senior class of Madison township high school will present "Ever Since Eve" as their annual class play at 8:15 p. m. Thursday and Friday in the auditorium. Directed by Eileen Stout, the three-act comedy is built around the wiles of two young girls working on a high school paper to capture the hearts of their boy friends. Shown above are some of the seniors making up the cast of the play. They are, first row, left to right, Jean Yeager, Norma Lee Mitchell and Jean Perry; second row, left to right, Elwyn Swisher, James Connor, George Petrovic, Martha Miller and Bob Hilborn. Additional member of the cast not shown in the picture are Howard Bletz, Robert Hilborn, Aaron Davis, jr., LeRoy Mitchell, Paul Wynn, Kenneth Windsor and Loyal Niebel.

RANK RAISED

Elliott Roosevelt Receives Temporary Promotion.

CAIRO —(AP)— Elliot Roosevelt, son of the president, recently was promoted to the temporary rank of major and military men said today "this rank corresponds with the importance of the work to which he assigned."

(Major Roosevelt joined the air force Sept. 23, 1940, with the rank of captain, an appointment which caused controversy in congress. He resigned his commission but the resignation was not accepted. Later, he was with the president at the "Atlantic charter" meeting with Winston Churchill. Two weeks after Pearl Harbor he became an air combat navigator and only recently he was sent to Egypt.)

Army men here explained that many British and most United States officers in this area enjoy temporary ranks above their substantive ranks. The other three Roosevelt sons all hold commissions. James Roosevelt is a captain in the marines, Franklin D., jr., a lieutenant in the navy and John a naval ensign.

SEES BOOST IN U. S. COAL NEED

Fuels Officials Says Nation Will Require Year-Round Mining Operations.

CINCINNATI—(INS)—The war will boast America's coal requirements from 70 to 75 million tons in 1942, and necessitate year-round mining operations, the American Mining congress had been told today.

The prediction came from Thomas J. Thomas associate director of the federal office of solid fuels coordination in Washington.

Bituminous output last year was 502,860,000 tons, Thomas said, but this year it will run from 550,000,000 to 570,000,000 million tons, a gain of about 47,000,000 to 67,000,000 tons.

He put 1941 anthracite production at 54,350,000 tons and 1942 requirements at 60,000,000 tons.

Thomas added that since Jan. 1, mines have averaged 11,288,000 tons of production weekly in the face of an anticipated average of no less than 11,000,000 tons.

He urged that both private and commercial users stock their bins to the limit in view of the need for mining operations throughout the usual off-seasons.

HART WILL SPEAK.

CINCINNATI— (AP) —Admiral Thomas C. Hart, former commander of the combined naval forces of the United Nations in the Far East, will address delegates tonight at a banquet concluding the two-day American Mining Congress convention.

It takes about seven hours for transit through the Panama Canal, which is 50 miles long.
